Russian-Made Jet Probably Shot Down, Another Damaged In Scrap

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO (AP)—An American tank-infantry patrol with mine-hunting engineers today shot its way out of a Communist ambush less than three miles from the North Korean border.

The tanks were moving up one side of the Pukhan River north of Chunchon and the infantry were plodding along the opposite bank when the Reds opened fire.

From high ground they poured machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire on all sides of the patrol.

The tanks pulled back to Chunchon, carrying the wounded.

Takes U.N. Post

John W. Holmes, head of External Affairs Department's United Nations division, will go to New York early next week as acting permanent representative of Canada to the U.N., Ottawa announced today. Mr. Holmes is taking the seat left vacant by the sudden death of R. G. "Gerry" Riddell in Virginia last week.

Canada Speeds Reopening Of Air Training

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada rushed plans today to reopen six dormant flying schools and to borrow jet trainers from the United States to teach 3,000 North Atlantic airmen a year to fly.

The new training program, described by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton as similar to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan in which Canada turned out thousands of World War 2 pilots, was an added feature of the nation's $5 billion three-year defence program.

The 3,000 target figure included 1,700 new Royal Canadian Air Force crewmen a year. The program will start rolling in earnest in a few months when schools used during the last war, and since closed, all have been reopened.

No Labor Conscription

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe, assuming charge of Canada's Defence Production program today, said it should not call for compulsory direction of manpower.

Few Billets For Pats

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Women's Auxiliary of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry said today it has been unable to obtain more than 70 offers from Greater Vancouver's 500,000 residents to billet Korea-bound soldiers this weekend.

'QUEBEC' TO BE NEW NAME OF UGANDA

The cruiser Uganda, now in refit at Esquimalt for recommissioning early next year, will be renamed the Quebec.

Naval Headquarters at Ottawa said today the consent of the King has been obtained for the renaming. The 9,500-ton veteran of Europe and Asia actions in World War 11 will become a training ship, the same role as now is being filled by her sister cruiser, Ontario.

The warship, built in Newcastle-on-Tyne for the Royal Navy in 1942, was the first Canadian cruiser of the war.

Fighting Pats Pause To Hear Religious Service

Hospital Insurance To Provide Added Coverage

Hospital insurance coverage under a family unit premium has been extended to cover grandparents and grand-parents-in-law who are financially dependent on the head of a household, it was learned today.

Strike Grows; French Troops, Police Called

PARIS (AP)—France today canceled leaves for all army and police personnel as a strike halted 80 per cent of the country's trains.

Those on leave were ordered immediately to rejoin their units, or the nearest unit they could find. Premier Henri Queuille, as Interior Minister, ordered the action after a series of conferences with ministers and labor leaders concerning the country-wide strike wave, which appeared to be spreading.

Workmen in the nationalized gas industry, who went on strike in Paris Monday, extended their stoppage today to Lyon, Rouen and Reims. At Bordeaux there was no garbage collection this morning.

Food supplies, including fish for Holy Week, continued to reach the great Paris market by truck and efforts were being made to keep a few trains running on the main lines.

But Easter traffic from abroad was seriously threatened. Faced by a call for a general railway walkout, issued by the non-Communist and predominantly Socialist Force Ouvriere, the government: Requisitioned railway personnel to stay at their jobs on the government-owned rail system or face heavy fines and jail terms, and set in motion a prearranged network of truck and bus services to replace as far as possible threatened loss of rail transport.

It was announced also that on or after April 1 emergency service given within 24 hours for accidental injury or minor surgery which cannot be provided in a doctor's office, may still be secured from a hospital but in an attempt to prevent abuse, a fee of $2 will be charged each person requiring such treatment.

SHAW LEAVES $1,000,000

Wants 40-Letter Alphabet Promoted

LONDON (CP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw, a pioneer Socialist who hated taxes, left an estate valued at $367,235 ($1,101,700), but reckoned after debts and taxes at about $121,014, his will and an accounting disclosed today.

The 14-page document directed that part of money be used for promoting a 40-letter alphabet which was one of the Irish wit's pet projects.

Shaw died last November at the age of 94. His net estate, after settlement of all outstanding obligations, was $301,585. Estate taxes totalled $180,571.

Shaw's will directed his executor to "institute and finance a series of inquiries" to determine:

1. The number of people speaking and writing the English language in the current 26-letter alphabet.
2. How much time could be saved by substituting Shaw's alphabet, in which each of 40 symbols would stand for a sound.

3. "The loss of income in British and American currency" from using the old alphabet instead of Shaw's proposed one.

The will authorized the publication of all letters he wrote to the late Mrs. Patrick Campbell, a witty actress who was long a great friend of his.

President Stewart Alsbury and Secretary George Mitchell were returned. Fred Feiler, Local 1-71, was elected third vice-president. All were unopposed. Roy Whittle, Victoria, was elected a six-year trustee.

SHOWERS OFFER CHALLENGE TO EASTER FINERY

New Easter finery may be worn on Easter Sunday as long as the wearer keeps an eye cocked on the sky, according to weather information drawn up by the weather office at Gonzales Observatory.

"We expect a series of storms moving eastward from Japan will bring scattered showers," William Mackie, director, said today. "There will probably be intervals of sunny weather between the storms if they proceed in the normal manner."

A storm now centred near the weather ship is expected to bring clouds and showers Friday afternoon.

Needs Bravery To Call Halt To Big 4 Talk

PARIS (AP)—The Big Four deputy talks may continue indefinitely, an authoritative source said today, unless someone takes the bold step to end them.

The other alternative, the source added, would be agreement on an agenda for a foreign ministers meeting. However, little or no progress is being made toward that end in the talks that began here March 5.

The deputies met again today after a session Wednesday described by a Western spokesman as a complete loss as far as results were concerned.

The deputies sat down together at a 2½-hour luncheon at the British Embassy today and decided not to have their regular afternoon conference. They decided instead to hold a "closed session" tomorrow. That means no news will be issued on what takes place at the meeting.

An official who was present said this should not be interpreted either as "a step forward or a step backward."

Remand Victorian On Forgery Count

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fred T. Willis, 32-year-old Victoria seaman, today was remanded without bail to March 30 when he appeared in police court on a charge of dealing in a forgery.

Police said Vancouver shopkeepers have been taken for more than $9,000 since a number of blank cheques were stolen last week-end from the offices of Forest Enterprises Ltd.

Police said Willis' arrest might be the first break in one of the biggest cheque forgery cases in the city's history.

Willis was arrested in a Granville Street hotel after a bogus cheque was cashed at a tailor's shop two blocks away.

O'Dwyer Will Face Tax Evasion Probe

Revenue Bureau To Check Alleged $10,000 Payment

(Compiled from late AP, UP Despatches)

A U.S. House of Representatives sub-committee ordered the Internal Revenue Bureau today to check on possible tax evasion in connection with alleged cash payments to former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer, U.S. Ambassador to Mexico.

At the same time, O'Dwyer also faced possible perjury charges about $65,000 in missing "political contributions."

The House announcement was made by Representative Cecil King (Dem.-Calif.), chairman of a ways and means sub-committee which has begun an investigation into enforcement of the federal tax laws.

King said the bureau was told to "expedite its investigation and report on the possibility that tax evasion may have occurred through failure to report alleged cash transactions" between O'Dwyer, New York Water Commissioner James J. Moran who resigned today, "and others in the New York area."

Crane's Charge Denied By O'Dwyer

John P. Crane, president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association in New York, told the Senate crime investigating committee Wednesday he gave $10,000 to O'Dwyer in 1949. O'Dwyer denied it.

Crane also said he gave Moran $35,000 as a "goodwill gift."

(The A.F.L. International Association of Fire Fighters today demanded the resignation as a vice-president of John P. Crane, who figured in the New York City Senate crime investigation, the Associated Press reported.)

Meanwhile, O'Dwyer said today he was not going to resign as ambassador and was not going to Washington for another appearance before the Senate crime investigating committee. His future as ambassador was "up to my superiors," he added.

Commissioner Moran said he would bow to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's demand that he resign his $15,000-a-year lifetime job because he allegedly accepted money from the head of the Uniformed Firemen's Association.

The mayor's demand was made yesterday after Crane, head of the association, told the Ke-

'Somebody Is Lying,' D.A. Charges

"Obviously somebody is lying," said District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, as he checked into possible perjury charges in the city's biggest political scandal since the Scabury investigation, drove Mayor Jimmy Walker out of office in the 1930's.

Crane's testimony climaxed an eight-day public hearing conducted by the Senate special investigating committee.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., chairman of the Senate committee, said in Washington last night that he had talked the matter of perjury charges over with Hogan and that "it will be brought to a very quick decision."

In still another crime, probe development today Jake (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed official of Chicago's Capone syndicate, surrendered to the Senate sergeant-at-arms today for appearance later before the Senate committee.

Guzik gave himself up as the committee switched its televised hearings to Washington from New York and called St. Louis betting commissioner James J. Carroll for testimony about interstate bookmaking.

The grand jury which questioned O'Dwyer previously asked Crane about $135,000 in cash in October, 1949, as "evidence of support" by the firemen.

O'Dwyer, in two days of testimony before the committee, earlier had sworn that he never got any money from Crane.

He said he repeated the denial yesterday before a New York County grand jury investigating the Uniformed Firemen's Association.

Lakes Seamen Must Undergo Police Screen

St. Laurent Announces New Security Measure

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today announced that seamen serving on Canadian ships on the Great Lakes are to be screened for security.

The Prime Minister told a press conference that the government had created the new regulations today under the emergency powers legislation recently passed by Parliament.

As a protection against sabotage all seamen serving on ships of Canadian registry or ownership on the Great Lakes will have to carry "seamen's cards" issued by the Labor Department.

Labor Minister Gregg said later in an interview he expects the screening will be put into effect by May 1.

The R.C.M.P. will screen applicants for seamen's cards, the Minister said. No anti-Communist oath will be exacted.

The Canadian screening program, the Prime Minister said, will be conducted in co-operation with United States authorities, who already have clamped down marine security restrictions.

The Prime Minister indicated the possibility that the security measures might be extended to seamen on foreign ships going up the Great Lakes.

Mr. St. Laurent also said, under questioning, that he had no announcement to make on whether the regulations will be applied to shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Tickets All Gone

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

ON SNAIL-WATCHING

IN THE LIGHT of recent revelations as to the new indoor occupation in wide sections of the United States of watching the televised "stars" of the Senate Crime Committee's hearings into the activities of the gambling czars and underworld characters, it comes like a breath of fresh air to discover that, in another part of the world, there are people who find their entertainment in snail-watching.

Or perhaps I should have said "were," for a London news item tells the knell of this leisurely occupation in a reference to Mr. Peter Henniker Heaton, formerly secretary and founder of the late British Snail-Watching Society, and general secretary of the International Federation of Snail-Watching societies.

INTERNATIONAL IN SCOPE

I QUOTE the latter title just to confound those critics who might, snootily, exclaim: "Well! Wouldn't you just know that was a British game?" Not that I have ever heard of snail-watching anywhere else but in the British Isles, but it is nice to know that there were sufficient organized groups of snail-watchers elsewhere to permit of an international federation being formed.

I recall reading some years ago in the Toronto Star Weekly about the activities of the English branch, taken at its then country headquarters at Yattendon Rectory, Berkshire, and at its London headquarters. Life magazine, too, had an illustrated article showing the doings of the members about the same time.

CHRISTMAS CARD

IN 1946, THE BRITISH society even issued a Christmas card to remind the world that snails were not being overlooked even in the face of counter-claims to publicity by the Loch Ness monster. But I have never heard of the members holding an annual meeting or issuing reports as to the financial condition of either the snails or the watchers, or quoting figures as to the results of their watching in terms of snail-miles covered or snail progeny statistics.

In fact, of late years, little has been heard of the society and its activities at all—if snail-watching can be called an activity? It conjures up visions of gentle recluses, retired college dons, and perhaps an elderly woman or two, reclining in some lush meadow or down a country lane, studiously intent on the leisurely progress of a bevy of silny snails.

NOW NO MORE

BUT NOW the society is no more. Mr. Heaton, in the news item to which I alluded earlier, after noting that the B.S.W.S. was founded "to promote interest in and appreciation of the snail for its own sake," observes that the society had been closed down because "we considered that we had successfully put the snail on the map and it could henceforward paddle its own canoe."

Such a delightful mixing of metaphors seems to me to be an apt epitaph for such a society. While it lasted, snail-watching must have been an ideal occupation for those who care for snails for their own sake, which I don't, although I must say I admire their thrift and resourcefulness in solving their own housing problem by taking it with them wherever they go.

OPEN SEASON

A PROPOS OF THE closing down of the B.S.W.S., the Peterboro (Ont.) Examiner editorially commented:

"That the open season for the sport would be considerably shorter in Canada than in England should be made up for by the fact that the Canadian snail is reported to be more nimble on his feet than his English relation, thus packing more excitement into less time."

That may be. But I still can't help feeling that there is much more to be said for watching snails than for watching gangsters and gamblers "hamming" on a television screen to make a Roman holiday for crime. And you must admit the British propensity for snail-watching typifies the British way of life, unhurried, but persistent—and finally getting there!

COUNCIL PUZZLED

No Means To Check Short Weight On Fuel

There would seem to be no answer for the many citizens' complaints regarding fraudulent fuel sales in Victoria.

City Council some time ago instructed City Solicitor Arthur J. Patton to write Trade Minister Howe.

Mr. Howe has replied the Department of Trade and Commerce does not assume responsibility for enforcement of provisions of the Weights and Measures Act.

Regarding a suggestion that municipalities regulate the act, Mr. Patton advised today:

"Within the narrow constitutional limits imposed by the B.N.A. no practical method of controlling or preventing delivery of fuel in short weight is available to the city."

Only action of the federal government is "spot checking" from time to time by the Weights and Measures officers.

STUDENTS HELP

EDMONTON (CP) — Students of the Victoria High School commercial division performed their annual service by filling 42,000 envelopes for mailing in the annual Red Cross campaign this month.

New cases of tuberculosis reported in Greater Victoria in 1950 were cut nearly in half from 1949, Dr. Joseph L. Gayton, medical health officer, revealed in his annual report to the Union Board of Health.

Stating the tuberculosis picture "continues to improve steadily," he said only 34 new cases were reported as compared with 64 in 1949.

Total number of communicable diseases reported in 1950 was considerably lower than in 1949 with exception of mumps and whooping-cough.

"Whooping-cough reached a total of 288 cases after four years of almost complete freedom from the disease," Dr. Gayton reported.

He noted a sudden increase in number and severity of scarlet fever cases which "changed considerably our attitude toward this disease which has been relatively benign during recent years."

A total of 4,408 immunizing doses were given by the staff in prevention of communicable diseases. Combined with biologicals distributed to private physicians, Dr. Gayton placed the total number of doses at 6,100.

Night Class Art Put On Display

Central Junior High School Wednesday night was the scene of a display of 287 pictures done in oils and watercolors by students of Greater Victoria evening classes, who range in age from 22 to 65.

"Many people have a good deal of talent underneath; it only remains for us to bring it out," said H. Moorehouse, instructor.

Among work shown was that of W. E. Wilford, 65, who painted a group of watercolors during his first year of painting.

3,200 Out Of Work

Safeway Denies Opening At Night

Fire Forces 8 To Flee Block In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eight persons fled in night attire when fire broke out early today in a five-suite apartment block in West-End Vancouver. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

D. A. Lamont, who with his wife occupied one suite in the apartment, discovered the blaze when he awoke at about 4.30 a.m. and smelled smoke.

He found the fire in the northeast corner of the basement and shouted a warning to other occupants of the block, one of four units of the Manor Gardens court. All escaped without injury.

A second alarm was turned in as firemen battled the stubborn blaze which spread rapidly through the building. It was nearly an hour and a half before the blaze was struck out.

The caretaker said oil was used to heat the building, but that coal and wood in the northeast corner of the basement had been stored there for about two years.

Grants Help Cancer Fight

Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, having certified pathologists on their staffs, will benefit from funds earmarked from the Department of National Health and Welfare health grants to provide better equipment for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

Seven B.C. hospitals will benefit from the grant.

For the past year a free biopsy service for detection of cancer has been available to all physicians in British Columbia, and is regarded as an important step in cancer control, since it has increased the number of tissue examinations carried out by pathologists.

Red Cross Drive Reaches $45,000

Greater Victoria's Red Cross three and a half week old campaign for $67,000 passed the two-third mark today.

Contributions tallied up to noon today totaled just over $45,000. The campaign has another week and a half to go.

Those who have not contributed are asked to mail or take their contribution to Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

He was replying to a statement made Wednesday night by John Aubry, business agent for the Retail Clerks' Union, in a report to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

Mr. Hembroff admitted some consideration had been given to keeping Safeway stores here open one night a week but no definite decision had been reached.

Canada Safeway recently has opened about 15 of its Vancouver stores on Friday nights.

Mr. Aubry said he had learned the six Safeway stores here would be kept open until 9 Friday nights, starting next week. He said his union feared workers of the firm would be asked to work a split-shift to make the night opening possible.

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, on a motion by Mr. Aubry, voted to write City Council opposing the opening of any grocery stores after 6.

Native Sons Open Drive To Restore Pioneer School

A campaign to restore the old Craigflower School, started in 1954 and completed the next year, will open next week under auspices of the Craigflower School committee of Victoria Posts of the Native Sons and Daughters of B.C.

Objective for the restoration of the school, the oldest remaining school in western Canada, is $6,000. It is proposed to install a heating plant, living quarters, sanitary arrangements, to restore the old school room to its original form, and arrange another downstairs room as a museum.

It is also hoped to have a full-time caretaker and to prepare the grounds for picnic parties.

Donations may be sent to Mrs. Cecil W. Davies, 330 Masters Road.

Monday Deadline On Cayuga Mail

There is still time to write another letter to men aboard the homeward bound Esquimalt-based Cayuga.

The Fleet Mail Office at Esquimalt has announced that closing time for mail is Monday evening at 8. That means all letters must be in the downtown post office by that time.

The last mail will be for trans-shipment to the ship at Pearl Harbor, her last port of call before reaching here.

The destroyer is the second of three which left Esquimalt July 5, to return. Athabaskan is due late next month.

Mr. Aubry said he had learned the six Safeway stores here would be kept open until 9 Friday nights, starting next week. He said his union feared workers of the firm would be asked to work a split-shift to make the night opening possible.

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, on a motion by Mr. Aubry, voted to write City Council opposing the opening of any grocery stores after 6.

Objective for the restoration of the school, the oldest remaining school in western Canada, is $6,000. It is proposed to install a heating plant, living quarters, sanitary arrangements, to restore the old school room to its original form, and arrange another downstairs room as a museum.

It is also hoped to have a full-time caretaker and to prepare the grounds for picnic parties. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Cecil W. Davies, 330 Masters Road.

There is still time to write another letter to men aboard the homeward bound Esquimalt-based Cayuga.

The Fleet Mail Office at Esquimalt has announced that closing time for mail is Monday evening at 8. That means all letters must be in the downtown post office by that time.

The last mail will be for trans-shipment to the ship at Pearl Harbor, her last port of call before reaching here.

The destroyer is the second of three which left Esquimalt July 5, to return. Athabaskan is due late next month.

Living Costs Endanger Families On Low Income

The high cost of living and its effect upon families of marginal income was one of the most far-reaching problems of the case committee of Family and Children's Service in 1950, Mildred Wright, superintendent, reported to the annual meeting.

"The number of these people who are getting further and further into debt, and whose home life is being endangered, increased to such an extent that the case committee felt the problem had reached the point where more direct study and action was necessary," Miss Wright said.

PRESENTS PROBLEM

The families concerned are those whose breadwinner can obtain only unskilled employment. A couple who might have been content and getting along in two rooms during the war now have a small family, pay high rent and are finding it difficult to meet the increased cost of living, Miss Wright said.

"Home life becomes unbearable and family break-ups are imminent in this sort of situation," she said.

She said the board of directors was asked to refer the problem to the Community Welfare Council, "as a critical situation which was striking at the very roots of family security and providing a breeding-ground for juvenile delinquency."

Plans for the future include a foster day care service and further counselling services. Need for additional workers, adequate salaries and a family court was stressed in the various reports.

Number Of Aged Living In City Shows Increase

Steady increase in the aged portion of Victoria's population is noted in the annual report of Medical Health Officer Gayton.

Death rate of 11.5 per thousand on Greater Victoria's 117,000 population is slightly over last year's rate of 1.297 or 11.1.

Accidents caused 74 deaths, 26 occurring in homes. "Obviously there is need for more attention to household equipment and arrangement in order to reduce hazards resulting in falls, fire and other accidents, for when there are this many deaths there must have been many times this number of injuries."

'STONE' IN GLASGOW?

Scotland Yard Believes Six Men Stole Historic Relic

GLASGOW (Reuter) — Scotland Yard today was working on the theory that six conspirators carried off the Coronation Stone of Stone from Westminster Abbey Christmas Day and seven others were in the know.

Two detectives who have just completed a nine-day investigation here are believed to have built up a complete picture of how the Stone was removed and where the job was planned—probably in Glasgow itself.

The detectives, Inspector Owen McGrath and Sergeant John McDougall, who have been interviewing university students supporting Scottish home rule, think the Stone was kept in London for a week after being taken from the Abbey and then

Jaycees Resent Being Labeled Unpatriotic

Angry members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce expressed resentment Wednesday night that some persons had labeled their organization as unpatriotic because it had taken a stand opposed to compulsory training.

George Willisroft declared junior chamber members were as patriotic as anyone. He estimated 90 per cent of the membership was composed of ex-service men or members of reserve units.

He said in expressing himself opposed to compulsory military training at this time, the junior chamber had given the question proper consideration and had studied the government's views on the matter.

Stresses Need For Mor Island Roads

CAMPBELL RIVER—Of the total amount of roads in British Columbia, a disproportionately few miles have been constructed on Vancouver Island, H. C. Holmes, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, said at the annual banquet of the Campbell River and District Chamber of Commerce.

Further, he said in stressing the need for more roads on the island, there is not one road that covers the 285-mile length of the island, nor the 60-mile width. Roads are of utmost importance to encourage settlement on the island, he said.

East Germans' Attack Brings U.S. Protests

FRANKFURT (AP) — U.S. authorities formally protested today to the Russians against "attacks by German nationals" on American military trains crossing Soviet-occupied East Germany to Berlin.

The six incidents complained of, as outlined in a letter from Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy United States High Commissioner, ranged from a bullet shot into a coach to demonstrations by groups of East Zone Germans singing anti-American songs and throwing propaganda leaflets aboard trains.

Hays asked his Russian counterpart, I. Semitschastnov, that the Russians punish the Germans responsible for the attacks and prevent a recurrence.

New Eniwetok Tests May Be Of Primitive H-Bomb

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—New atomic blasts being prepared at the Pacific proving grounds on Eniwetok atoll probably will have a dual aim. The tests conceivably could involve a primitive type of H-bomb.

According to all indications, they will be the biggest ever tried. Strong suggestions point to both "guinea pig" and "field laboratory" type tests this time. The 1946 blasts at Bikini were an example of the guinea-pig tests. Ships and aircraft were exposed to the blasts to see how badly they could be mauled.

The 1948 Eniwetok tests were in the field-laboratory class. Lt. Gen. John E. Hull, commander of the A-bomb task force, said after those tests that their main purpose had not been to inflict physical damage but to record effects of the explosions with scientific devices.

Available information indicates the two types so far have not been used during one testing period. The tests could include a primitive type of the hydrogen bomb. Scientists in the past have indicated that a crude version could be put together by 1951.

At the least, the bombs being tested will be vast improvements over the 1948 models.

Holes In The Tax Net

ONE IMPORTANT AND STARTLING aspect of Mr. Anscomb's recent budget speech has received too little attention. He charges that British Columbia is paying far more Federal taxes, in proportion to its wealth, than the three prairie provinces. In plain terms, the people of the prairies, according to Mr. Anscomb, are escaping through gaping holes in the Federal Government's taxation net.

This charge is not to be confused with the older and unsound theory that the Federal Government has no right to take more taxes out of British Columbia than it pays back to us in subsidies or in local expenditure. By such a theory Canada is not a nation but a congeries of ten sovereign states which delegate certain powers to a central government. In fact, the Government of Canada has the right to collect and spend money wherever Parliament decides, and no provincial government has any power of veto over its actions, so long as they conform with the constitution.

Mr. Anscomb is not arguing now to the contrary. His allegation is quite different—that the Federal Government's tax collections, which are levied at the same rate all over the country, somehow take more money from the purse of the British Columbian than from the purse of the prairie resident. Naturally, since British Columbia has more money than any of the prairie provinces it must pay more in taxes in total than they. Mr. Anscomb says, however, that the collections here, in proportion to our wealth, are higher than on the prairies.

In the six years from 1944 to 1950, Mr. Anscomb's figures show, British Columbia paid $851 millions in Federal corporation, income, excess profits and succession duty taxes. Alberta paid $333 millions; Saskatchewan $188 millions, and Manitoba $428 millions.

In this same period the total personal incomes of British Columbia were $5.8 billions; of Alberta $4.2 billions; of Saskatchewan, $4 billions; of Manitoba, $3.6 billions.

On a six-year average, British Columbia paid 14.53 per cent of its aggregate personal incomes in the Federal taxes mentioned, while Alberta paid 7.87 per cent, Saskatchewan 4.64 per cent, and Manitoba, 11.78 per cent. If the prairies had paid Federal taxes in proportion to their income on the same basis as British Columbia, Alberta would have paid $293 millions more than it did pay; Saskatchewan $413 millions more, and Manitoba $109 millions more.

Again, Mr. Anscomb compares the Federal taxes of the four provinces to their total production of wealth, which is the soundest measurement of tax-paying capacity. He shows that in 1948, the last year of public record, British Columbia paid 17.84 per cent of its net production in Federal taxes while Alberta paid 8.64 per cent, Saskatchewan 5.42 per cent, and Manitoba 13.73 per cent.

Even admitting that a rich man or province can afford to pay a higher percentage of its total wealth in taxes than a poor man or province, Mr. Anscomb's figures show an extraordinary disparity between the tax burdens of British Columbia and its neighbors.

"In relation to income," says Mr. Anscomb, "the people of this province have contributed, over the last six years, about twice as much as Alberta and three times as much as Saskatchewan and three times as much as Manitoba."

The same story is told if tax collections are compared with the net value of production. . . . We may well ask how citizens of another area can avoid taxation amounting to millions of dollars in each and every year.

The answer, he says, is that British Columbia's industry is organized in a fashion which makes the task of the tax collector relatively easy. Our economy is made up of corporations readily taxed and our people, Mr. Anscomb might have added, are generally employed on payrolls from which income taxes are automatically collected at the source.

The wealth of the prairies is widely diffused, is largely held by individual farmers who are hard to reach. "Due solely to differences in type of organization required by the economies of different provinces," says Mr. Anscomb, "some are avoiding fairly sizable tax burdens compared, for example, with British Columbia."

This complaint and these figures cannot be ignored by the Federal Government against which they are lodged. British Columbia does not begrudge its full share of Federal taxes but it expects other provinces to pay their levies on the same basis. Mr. Abbott should answer Mr. Anscomb.

Government—direct retaliation, be it noted, for La Prensa's objective reporting of Peron's use of troops to put down a railway strike. No, the dictator had to go the whole way in an effort to rid himself of the voice of Argentina's conscience, which would not be still.

This week Government police marched into the strike-bound newspaper building in Buenos Aires and sealed the doors. A nine-man Government committee has assumed jurisdiction of La Prensa, with instructions to "intervene and investigate." Whether this means permanent closure of the great organ or its reappearance as a Peron propaganda sheet is not yet clear. But the people of the democratic world will know that this is bald dictatorship in action, that one of the most important freedoms of the Atlantic Charter is being stifled in the South American republic, and they will be strengthened in their resolve to fight such a trend wherever it may appear.

Price Could Be An Element

WITHIN A WEEK OF THE DAY ON which butter prices jumped 20 cents on the local market, Mr. Charles Walls, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, informed the B.C. Legislature's agricultural committee that continued sale of margarine in Canada may eventually mean that butter will disappear from store shelves. His statement will be of only academic interest to many housewives. Butter left their pantry shelves some time ago when its price ran over the limit of a stretched household budget.

His further point, that farmers are slaughtering their dairy herds because they can make more money on meat, and the supplementary announcement of Mr. Alex Mercer, president of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, forecasting a milk shortage as a result of reduced herds, will also strike a sour note in the ears of the majority of consumers. In recent weeks the public has also been required to pay more for that commodity, and statistics reveal that human consumption of the fluid food is below nutritional requirements.

What Mr. Walls and Mr. Mercer are saying in a roundabout way is that the dairy industry is "gunning to price itself out of the market. At 82 cents a pound, butter is beyond the reach of a large number of household budgets. The answer to that problem is not to seek re-imposition of a ban on the sale of margarine. It is to achieve greater efficiency in the production and distribution of dairy products, since no matter how the dairy industry may seek to protect itself by increased prices, its products cannot be sold when they go beyond the consumer's means. No government or milk board can repeal the law of supply and demand.

Perhaps the statement made to the Legislature's agricultural committee may prompt Mr. Bowman, Minister of Agriculture, to do more than rest on his pre-sessional stand favoring an inquiry into the price of milk. Mr. Bowman can arrange such an inquiry without delay. What is stopping him from taking that course?

Another Illusion Shattered

INTO THE DEPARTMENT OF "things that aren't what they seemed to be" goes film actress Dorothy Lamour's sarong. It appears the garment is not a sarong at all. An anthropological expert defines it merely as a pareu, in the Tahiti tongue, or a lava-lava if you prefer the Samoan variant. As a sarong, however, it raised a considerable fund for charity at auctions conducted in worthy causes. As a sarong it won renown for one of Hollywood's current favorites. And as a sarong it passed the moving picture censors. A real sarong could not have done that, being a bit short in the bib. Calling the material a sarong is only a mild deceit. Yet it could rouse other doubts in the minds of tired businessmen who dream of languid ease in a South Sea beachcomber's paradise. Perhaps dear Dorothy isn't exactly a replica of the typical island belle, either. Probably the whole South Sea theory is phony.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

I AM starting a society, not too exclusive and not too general. Its members must have had personal experience of real flu, genuine influenza, THE flu. And it will be their pleasant duty to disparage and heap scorn upon anyone who claims to have flu when all he has is a bad cold or la grippe. We shall also discredit those who talk about tummy-flu. Tummy-flu is a nasty thing, but it isn't flu. It's no more flu than it is sprue, another nasty ailment.

When you have real flu, it is impossible for you to say "I think I have a touch of flu." There is no doubt left in you, except perhaps a doubt about the value of human existence. You feel sick all over, you run a good temperature, and it takes you a long time to get better. And with proper neglect, you can manage to pick up heart trouble, pneumonia, or a so-called nervous breakdown into the bargain. Dr. Gogarty denies there is such a thing as a nervous breakdown at all. But he may sometimes know what I mean when I mention one, and that's what words are for. That is sometimes (but not always) what nervous breakdowns are for, too . . . to show people what you mean.

I AM sorry for anyone with a bad cold. But I despise him when he calls it flu. Also, I feel jealous and gyped. He is claiming credit that belongs to us genuine flu victims. He doesn't know what real sickness and weakness are. It takes (we feel) real talent to be as ill as we were. All invalids feel that way about themselves, of course. They are always trying to break some kind of record, and they will tell you (and so will their mothers) that the doctor said that never in all his life had he seen such a case. No, bust him, not him. Never saw the like. But every case of real flu is well worth boasting about, and its imaginary medals must be worn only by those duly attested to be veterans.

EVERY two years (the odd years, such as 49, 51, etc.) they get a thing in England called Type A flu. And what a thing it is! No drummer could hint at THAT Thing simply by going pom-pom-pom in a foolish song. I can hint at it far better by telling you what it did to me in 1939. It made me so weak that when I tried to open a tin of soup for my wife (who had just caught it from me), I hadn't the strength to open the tin at all. And when I found I was helpless, I sat down on the kitchen floor and burst into tears, so help me. You don't find any cold doing that to old Brocky or to anyone else over the age of six. No, it takes Type A flu . . . Grade A. Large.

TEARS and flu are a funny thing. If you get weak enough, you can cry like a baby over the silliest novels. I once wrote a poem about this, addressed to a nameless novelist:

When I had flu I sat and cried
To think of how your heroine died,
But now I'm up and take the air
I realize I have ceased to care.
My better nature, says my nurse,
Is only better when I'm worse.
To circulate your novels, you
Should circulate the germs of flu.

Flu can give you a crying jag and its hangover simultaneously, though without the initial fun.

NOT that I am any expert on crying jags. I'd not like you to get that impression. I've had only one in my life, and that was when I thought of myself as a wild young law student. (Actually, I was not at all wild, not any too young, and not much of a student. In fact, all the time I was supposed to be studying law at Osgoode Hall, I was helping Toronto's medical students study medicine. I even wrote these students two medical plays. One was awarded a prize. In order to safeguard my honesty and keep me from accepting a prize restricted to medical students, one of the actors in the play accepted the prize on my behalf and spent the $50 on behalf of himself and his pals. Which just goes to show you that it sometimes pays to have scruples on somebody else's behalf.)

WHERE was I? Oh yes, crying jags. Well, when I was this allegedly wild young law student, I got tangled up with a party at a so-called club on St. George Street. I thought it was called a club because it hit you over the head and left you feeling non compos mentis. Also, after you got sluggish you got frisked . . . no courtesy census, if I may so express myself. On that party, each of the males was charged for the whole party and was too polite to compare notes until too late. Before venturing into such dismal surroundings, the party conducted some experiments with an elixir called "My Angel's Kiss," a rather bold compound of apricot brandy, orange juice, and gin. It tasted weak and sweet. This was misleading. It was anything but weak, and its sweetening effect was negligible.

I'M not sure how it affected its other dupes, but the poor young law student began to weep during the course of the evening, and he couldn't stop. I admit that club was enough to make anyone want to cut his own throat, but the tears, idle tears, still astounded me. A kindly member of the party told me that if only I thought about Saint Theresa I would be all right. I tried this. I thought about Saint Theresa for half an hour, but the more I thought about her the harder I cried. Not her fault, of course. Mine entirely. Luckily these tears didn't seem to be catching, and there they differed from flu. But only in that. You didn't have to be a medical student to see how flu and My Angel's Kiss can disintegrate you utterly.

As Our Readers See It

CRUSADER

In reply to the actions of a local youth organization which has lately been distributing pamphlets in front of a local theatre.

Gentlemen, I agree with you most wholeheartedly on most of the points in your pamphlet. My only complaint is that you have not carried your crusade far enough. Your pamphlet states that the movie in question "shows disrespect for the customs and beliefs of Asiatic peoples." Quite true. But, gentlemen, a film which enjoyed great popularity here lately most certainly displayed great disrespect for the customs and some of the beliefs of a group of people commonly called "alcoholics." I refer, of course, to Harvey. How could you allow this injustice to pass unnoticed?

Also, in the "C" grade western which shares the bill with the disputed film, the dashing heroine and company spend some time in mutilating and killing a number of the villains of the piece. Does not this film, then, "glorify inhuman atrocities?" "The Steel Helmet" is condemned for doing so, why not this far more deserving piece of Hollywood trash?

In short, gentlemen, a crusade which is as inconsistent as yours shortly be comes little more than a farce.

A TEEN-AGED STUDENT.

GRACIE'S CONCERT

Many people, as myself, were stunned to learn of the cancellation of Gracie Fields' visit to Victoria as there was nowhere available to accommodate her, after the announcing of an earlier date, which was unavoidable due to other pressing engagements in the offing.

It should be realized all traveling artists are subject to any arrangements being changed at short notice. In a capital city especially, it showed very poor spirit and effort in being unable to secure some place for the annual visit of such a versatile popular star as Gracie Fields, who always draws good crowds.

DISGUSTED.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE SALARY

I wish to protest the recent salary increase granted to the commissioner of the H.I.C. He is to receive a salary of $8,500 per year—an increase of $1,450. In order to pay this increase, 161 over-taxed family heads will have to pay increased premiums, and only one person will gain by their sacrifice.

The scheme has not, in my opinion, been run efficiently enough to warrant or afford a salary increase to any of its officers.

ALLAN E. AHOLA.

1425 Fort Street.

FROM THE PEOPLE

Everyone is in favor of the hospital insurance—the Government, newspapers, and the people. Everyone is also in favor of lower taxes, lower prices, higher wages, two chickens in every pot, and two cars in every garage.

Despite, however, the absurd claims of the socialist-minded, the fact remains that the people have to pay for everything finally. A subsidy from the sales tax or general revenue does not alter the fact that the money must come from the people. There are many things considered desirable in the world by individuals and countries, but many of them are not obtainable or cannot be afforded.

It seems to me the only difference between a private hospitalization scheme and the Government hospitalization is that we must pay for a great deal of waste in the latter scheme. Many more people could afford hospital insurance efficiently run by companies such as the Blue Cross.

MOTIVES AND POLICIES

I wonder whether it is not about time that the politicians of this world begin to realize that the motives behind their policies are no longer as secret as they imagine.

The masses think but unfortunately are not allowed to express their thoughts freely on account of the monopoly of vital news from government's advertising bribes.

Thus the fact that we are on an avalanche of inflation throughout the world is kept a secret, and every act that is brought into effect brings the deluge nearer, and nothing is done to stop it.

There are very drastic methods to check this inflation, but no politician dares to suggest any of them for fear of personal loss, which is inevitable.

FORCED TO MARGARINE

The statement by the secretary of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, that margarine competition with butter is too hard to beat, is not to be wondered at, if my experience is general. Of the last half-dozen pounds of butter I have purchased, only two were enjoyable eating. The wrinkled condition of the wrapping of the four testified to a too-long sojourn in storage.

We are being driven to margarine by the manipulation of the market.

A Life-Saver To Me

With so many people complaining so terribly about Hospital Insurance it seems a pity that we who have benefited by it should remain so silent—and I believe there are several thousand of us. After the experience I have had I will not grumble when the rates have to be raised. Thirty dollars a year is a drop in the bucket compared to the value we get if we are seriously ill and in the hospital for a long time. I complained about it bitterly over a year ago—said it was just a racket, and that we who never went to the hospital and did not intend to go, were paying for a lot of people in there more or less enjoying themselves.

Then suddenly the tables were turned. I became very ill and had to be rushed to the hospital for a very serious operation. In the weeks of illness (and sometimes pain) which followed, the greatest comfort I had was in knowing that I would not have to pay the hospital bill, which I knew would be very large. I think I would scarcely have lived if I had had this to worry about, as worry is the worst thing for a seriously ill person.

I cannot speak highly enough of the care I got, and firmly believe that had it not been for Hospital Insurance I would not have survived such care. That is the wonderful thing about it, that it gives the poor person the same chance as the rich. It is true that many people are having X-rays now who probably would not have been able to have them had it not been for hospital insurance, but it is also true that a stitch in time saves nine, and by finding out early about different ailments, the general health of the public in B.C. is bound to be raised.

We Are Missing A Good Chance

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Berlin

YOU could see that the wiry little man with the round, high-colored face had probably been good with his horses—he was a veterinary captain in a Soviet artillery regiment who had as they say, "chosen freedom." Despite his horribly shabby castoff clothes he retained an air of competence, and his Russian peasant vitality prevented him from being truly downcast. Yet after 18 months of freedom's privileges, after 18 months of interrogation and D.P. camps and life as an outcast, this natural vitality of the young captain has been veiled by an almost visible melancholy. Melancholy seemed in fact to have settled upon him slowly but relentlessly, as dust settles upon the forgotten furniture in an abandoned house. He finished his schnapps in one gulp and summed up his problem in a single tragic question:

"Do you really think we were right to come over—all of us who left the Soviets for this life on a dustheap, or should we have stayed with our own people?"

The little man with the tragic question is worthy of more than momentary consideration as a symbol of a missed opportunity. The opportunity is Berlin, an island of freedom in the midst of the Soviet zone of Germany. Here in Berlin, this reporter has just completed a rather prolonged exploration of the various resistance—and liberation—movements, German and Russian, which have their main or advanced bases here.

It was a decidedly curious experience. At the suburban house which is the headquarters of Theodore Friedenau's Committee of Free Jurists of the Soviet Zone, more than 100 East Germans crowded the anterooms to report injustices by the Communist hierarchy, which would then be investigated and publicized.

RESISTANCE CENTRE

An equal crowd milled in the anterooms of the Kampfruppe of Paul Tillich and Rainer Hildebrandt, the centre of a more conventional political resistance.

The Russian refugees were all the same—the veterinary captain, the armored force sergeant, the wife of a secret police officer, shivering in sleazy artificial silk, and the former head of the communication section at Carlsborst, the Russian headquarters, who had brought his whole family out with the help of "friends in the secret police"—even among them there are some who are discontented.

All had been interminably interrogated, the communications officer for no less than two continuous years. When the interrogations ended, all had been flung upon the dustheap, as the veterinary captain said, and were now eking out a weary existence in one of the grim D.P. camps. All had come hoping much from the free world. All had got nothing, except to be utterly cut off from the world they knew. All—and this is the inner horror—visibly regretted the hard choice they had made.

In the end one did not wonder that the defections, which might have almost crippled the Russians in East Germany, have instead been reduced to a mere trickle. One wondered, rather, why all governments nowadays, even with the best intentions, seem to be so utterly incapable of generosity or kindness or the fine gesture. This seems, indeed, to be one of the marks of our time.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"THERE'S a lot of truth," said the Elevator Man, "in that old remark that you can get too much of a good thing." Every youngster who's had one ice cream cone too many, every adult who's taken a fatal extra slice of mince pie or a drink too many, knows exactly what it means. But it covers a wide ground. Anything can be spoiled by having too much of it.

The radio is a fine thing but you can use it too much. A rest is good but it can become too long. There should be moderation in everything, even moderation. Right now I'm thinking of music—a wonderful thing in itself. But a fella in Duesseldorf, in Germany, has just set a world record for playing the piano—198 hours without a stop. Of course you could argue that it probably wasn't 'music' he was playing. That may be, but he was playing the piano, anyway. And anybody who plays it for 198 hours steady is certainly overdoing it. Sheer quantity can turn a good thing into a bad thing, a boon into a nuisance. Lower main!

"That," said the Elevator Man, "is something we ought to remember. When we're tempted to 'lay it on too thick,' to swamp our victim with music, or politics, or good works, or our own personalities, we should remember that too much can be worse than not enough. It takes longer to starve than it does to suffocate in a wheat bin. You can drown faster than you can die of thirst. Going down!"

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "when you've been subjected to a surfeit of things, there's a corresponding relief when the ordeal is over. It's like the fella who used to bang himself on the head with a hammer because it felt so good when he stopped. Or, along the same lines, the hard-pressed mother who liked having children around the house because 'they make the place so nice and peaceful when they've gone to bed'."

OAK BAY SIGHS, ACCEPTS FATE ON SCHOOL BILL

With a shrug of its collective shoulder, Oak Bay Council last night did what it expected it would have to do—accepted the fact it will have to pay its share of the Greater Victoria School Board's estimates of ordinary expenditures.

"Our meetings (with the school board) apparently were not very fruitful," signed Councillor R. B. Wilson, finance committee chairman. He was one of two councillors who met with the board and attempted to have estimates cut.

Reeve P. A. Gibbs and his council have voiced objection to the basis of allotment of school costs long and often. They contend the present basis is unfair to the municipality.

Labor Leaders Protest Failure To Reopen Act

'Breach Of Faith,' Charged Over Latest Action On Industrial Code

Labor leaders in Victoria and Vancouver today expressed great dissatisfaction that the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act will remain unchanged this year.

Reaction came to announcement Wednesday afternoon by Labor Minister Cates in the B.C. Legislature that the labor law would not be opened this year, but that a legislative committee would be appointed to bring in amendments during 1952.

Labor men today charged the government with a "breach of faith" and termed the coalition "an employers' government."

The labor men were equally disturbed that the Workmen's Compensation Act would not be reopened this year.

"Labor has lost faith in the government," R. K. Gervin, president of the T.L.C.'s provincial executive, declared.

George Home, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor (C.C.L.), said: "We are keenly disappointed that no changes are to be made. B.C. workers have been left far behind in recent years because of the unfairness of the I.C. and A. Act."

Tom Alsbury, president of the Vancouver, New Westminster and District Trades and Labor Councils, said: "The government is making a serious mistake."

Harold Thayer, chairman of the legislative committee of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, said: "The government these last two years has had the briefs of organized labor and management on what changes are wanted in the act. It's just a waste of the taxpayer's money to set up this extra committee."

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

An autumn-flowering plant, which needs attention now, is the Schizostylis (ski-zos-ti-lis or skiz-ot-lis).

Unfortunately, home gardeners are not familiar enough with this brilliant addition to our fall and early winter border display, though it is of easy culture.

Schizostylis is known by many common names, all of which are equally confusing. But whether you will call it Kafir-lily, Winter Gladiolus, or Crimson Flag, a small group of these beautiful little plants will delight you with flowers from October to December.

The leaves are narrow and strap-like, and the 12 to 24-inch stem bears scarlet-crimson flowers which resemble tiny gladioli.

While the Schizostylis is listed with the bulbous subjects, its roots are actually fleshy and not true bulbs having scales. These roots may be divided, and this work should be done in March if the clumps appear to be overcrowded.

Hardy in sheltered gardens, the plants thrive in a light-well-drained soil which will hold plenty of moisture in summer.

In districts subject to early frosts, the plants may be dug in September and put into pots, keeping them outside as long as the weather is mild. After enjoying their blooms indoors, the plants are returned to the open soil the following summer.

There is only one species of the Schizostylis grown and that is coccinea, and its worth cannot be overstated, both as a border subject and as a long-lasting cut flower.

Fruit Farmers Not Satisfied

The government was thanked in the Legislature Wednesday for making a $250,000 grant to interior fruit farmers whose orchards were damaged and destroyed in the severe winter of 1949-50.

There was little enthusiasm though in the acknowledgment of the money which Arthur Ritchie (Cln.-Salmon Arm) made in Budget Speech debate.

The $250,000 will not go far, he told the House, stating the farmers had not given up hope that the federal government might lend a hand.

The Salmon Arm member wondered why the national government had balked at helping the interior fruit growers when they contributed $400,000 to assist Nova Scotia ranchers to replant their orchards because the fruit they were growing was not what the market wanted.

Season Opens For Model Airplanes

Members of the Victoria Model Airplane League held their first point meet of the season at Lansdowne field. Longest flight of the day was made by Dick Chisholme's Towline glider which landed on Cook Street after 11 min. 46 sec. to win the combined senior and open competition.

In junior point standings Alan Payne and Andy Ritchie are tied for first place with 19 points. In senior point standings Bill Gelling leads with 19 points. In open Doug Collis is top with 26 points. Alan Payne and Andy Ritchie share the junior lead.

There were 26 planes in the competition gliders.

Oak Bay Jumps Wage Offer

Oak Bay Council has upped its wage increase offer to outside and inside municipal employees and the police department to half the amount the workers originally sought.

At a meeting with the three-man representative committee last night, council offered a $15 a-month across-the-board boost. Its highest previous offer had been $12.

The employees have asked for $30 across the board.

The workers' representatives, headed by Robert Smith, now will submit the latest counter-offer to the membership of the Municipal Employees' Association for approval or rejection.

Wants Margarine Color Ban Lifted

Removal of color restrictions on oleomargarine is being sought in the Legislature by Mrs. Tilly Rolston, Cln.-Vancouver Point Grey.

She will introduce a bill next week and will argue that with prices of butter becoming prohibitive to the ordinary family and with butter shortage becoming more acute, the sale of margarine colored by the manufacturer should be allowed.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Little Manny was a baby Manicoway down in the land-of-always summer. Manicoway is what the folks down there call the opossum, the southern cousin of Uncle Billy Possum, and looking very much like him. Little Manny was hardly bigger than a mouse. He was crawling along on the trunk of a fallen palm tree and he was crying in a funny small squeaky voice. He was crying for his mother. You see he was altogether too young and too small to be out in the Great World all alone.

He wasn't quite as much alone as perhaps he thought he was. His mother was lying stretched out on that same tree trunk just a little way from him, though I suspect he didn't know this for sure. She looked to be dead. She wasn't dead, but she was doing her very best to look that way. She wanted Farmer Brown's boy and a friend of his, who had caught her, to think she was dead. They were standing just a little way off watching and chuckling silently as they watched. You know there is a sort of inside chuckle that makes no sound. Any sound from them would have told Mother Manicoway where they were. As it was she wasn't sure that they were there at all. For all she knew they had gone away leaving her for dead. She hoped they had, but as she could neither see nor hear them there was no way for her to know except to be patient and continue to pretend she was dead.

"Ma! Ma! Ma!" cried little Manny as he crawled along toward her. How she must have wanted to answer that pitiful little squeaky voice. But she didn't. She just lay there without making a sign that she was alive.

Presently he reached her. He rubbed his little nose in her fur. He knew he had found his mother. His nose told him that. It was filled with the dear mother smell. But what made her keep so still? Why didn't she take some notice of him? He crawled along on her side to her shoulder. He poked his rather sharp little nose into her neck. Still she didn't move. Something must be wrong. Never had she treated him this way before. He began to whimper and then to cry again.

Then it happened. That baby Possum lost his hold on his mother's fur and fell off of her and off the trunk of that fallen tree. The tiny claws of one small hand caught in the bark and held. Then he got hold with the claws of the other hand and hung on. There he hung, almost directly under his mother's very nose. Would he lose his hold and fall? The two watching him wondered. Perhaps his mother wondered, too.

He was crying harder than ever now, but his mother didn't move. She didn't try to help him. She made no sound to comfort him. She just lay there as if he really and truly dead. But he didn't fall. Little by little he pulled himself up and got hold of his mother. Once more he climbed up on her, this time

Ma! Ma! Ma! cried little Manny as he crawled toward her. right over her face. Even then she made no move, no sign that she was alive.

HARDEST TEST

Then it was that Mother Manicoway had her hardest test of self-command. Little Manny poked his little nose right into one of her ears and moved it about. It must have tickled. How it must have tickled! She didn't so much as twitch that ear. No, sir, she didn't. There wasn't so much as one teeny weeny twitch of that ear. And little Manny was crying right in that ear at the same time. Still she took no heed. It didn't seem possible that she could keep from at least twitching that ear.

Farmer Brown's boy almost wondered if she might not be really dead, perhaps frightened to death. The wee possum wondered what was the matter with his mother. And I suspect that Manicoway was wondering if those pesky giants had been fooled and had gone away. But she couldn't tell. She would be patient a little longer.

T.C.A. President Speaks Tonight

Scheduled to address Trans-Canada Air Lines district managers, currently meeting here, is company president G. R. ### No Unemployment Benefits For Strikers Who Are Not Rehired

A striker who is not taken back to work when the strike ends is not entitled to unemployment insurance benefits no matter what the reason for the layoff, Victor Midgley informed the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

Some employees of the Victoria Bed and Mattress Company who were on strike for more than five weeks, starting Jan. 26, were not taken back at the end of the strike simply because the company had got behind in their orders and there was no work for them to do.

They had been refused unemployment insurance benefits because of their participation in the strike.

Midgley's complaint was referred to the council's legislative committee for investigation.

Takes Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson slipped quietly away from Ottawa Wednesday for his first real holiday in some time. His office said the minister had asked that his destination be not made public other than that it was somewhere in Canada. Mrs. Pearson went with him.

Law Enforcement Probe Announced For Ontario

Premier Frost Calls For Action Following Angry Debate With C.C.F. In Legislature

A hot, angry sitting of the Ontario Legislature wound up late Wednesday night with a surprise announcement by Premier Frost that he will call for a select committee of the House to investigate the administration of justice in the province.

The Premier, angered in a bitter clash with the C.C.F., made the statement just before the House adjourned for an Easter recess. He said that when it resumes next Tuesday he will move the appointment of the committee to probe law-enforcement in Ontario with particular emphasis on Windsor.

Activity in all other Provincial Legislatures subsided today before the approach of Easter recesses.

In Halifax, Labor Minister A. H. MacKinnon, tabling the Labor Department's interim report, told the Nova Scotia Legislature it revealed a year of almost strifeless industrial relations in that province.

The Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously approved a resolution asking the federal government to pay farmers at least $48,000,000 as a return of the subsidy paid by producers on domestic wheat.

A uniform October election day each year for Alberta's seven cities was approved in principle by the Provincial Legislature in Edmonton.

In the Manitoba Legislature, a C.C.F. want-of-confidence motion, charging the government with failing to make proper provision for civil servants' salaries, was defeated.

Ontario Man Free On Murder Charge

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court jury late Wednesday acquitted Edward B. Murphy, charged with the hammer-slaying Feb. 5 of his wife Bella H. Murphy, 68.

Murphy, former North Bay business man, also 68, slumped slightly on his bench in the prisoner's box and bowed his head when he heard the verdict. "I think your verdict is a very just one," Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, presiding judge, told the jury.

Matter Of Colors

SHEPPERTON, Middlesex, Eng. (CP)—Tenants complained to the local council about its decision to tone down the color scheme of a house. The house is known as Rainbow Corner because of its red, rust, yellow, white and powder-blue walls.

TWO WEEKLY EDITORS SWAP NEWSPAPERS

Two B.C. weekly newspaper publishers shortly will close a unique deal.

J. Bart Creighton of the Hope Standard and Victor Heller of the Campbell River Courier have completed arrangements to swap their properties April 2.

Mr. Heller, an R.C.A.F. veteran, has operated the Courier for four and a half years. Mr. Creighton recently acquired the Standard after serving for 25 years as managing editor of the Cowichan Leader in Duncan.

Reject Plea For Strike Vote Change

The B.C. Labor Relations Board will make no change in the system of conducting strike votes in individual bargaining units concerned. D'Arcy Baldwin, board chairman, has informed the Trades and Labor Council.

Victor Midgley, carpenter representative, disagreed with the board's interpretation of the section of the act dealing with this matter. He said the act was not intended to split a union up into so many small groups, that it was easy to tell how individuals voted when a strike ballot was cast.

Letter Took Five Days To Reach Esquimalt

Charge that a letter posted in Victoria took five days to be delivered to its destination in Esquimalt was made before the Victoria District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night during discussion of the curtailed mail delivery service.

Blamed It On Pills

A man who pleaded not guilty to a charge of being intoxicated and blamed pills, produced the pills in court yesterday.

After examining them, Magistrate H. C. Hall said he did not consider them responsible. He found accused guilty and as it was a third offence the penalty was 20 days in jail.

The charge was made by Harold Thayer, a council executive member.

He declared: "Service here has degenerated to such an extent as far as important city mail is concerned, it's far better to deliver it yourself." He said mail carriers were being worked extra long hours since the one-delivery-a-day plan went into effect. Some mail carriers were still walking their routes after 5 o'clock.

About 1,200 letter carriers are being laid off throughout Canada.

The council voted to protest the cut in mail service.

W.C.A. Probe Not Completed

Labor Minister John Cates said in the Legislature Wednesday Chief Justice Sloan's inquiry into the Workmen's Compensation Act had not yet gone far enough for him to recommend an interim increase in payments, dependents' allowances and wage ceilings.

Report from the Chief Justice said 613 witnesses had been heard in the Royal Commission inquiry but evidence was not completed far enough to suggest interim changes.

PAY BOOSTS FOR B.C. JUDGES

Justices of the Appeal Court will receive an additional $1,500 a year to the present $13,000 and Supreme Court judges will be increased to $13,000 a year under a bill brought down in the Legislature yesterday.

The extra money the province will pay, is for extra work the justices undertake, such as holding courts of enquiry and sitting as royal commissioners.

Federal government pays the present salaries.

Central Saanich Seeks No Delay In Validation

Central Saanich will press the Department of Municipal Affairs to pass the Validating Act covering incorporation of Central Saanich without delay.

J. W. Ismay, Creston municipal clerk, has been engaged by Central Saanich, but no date was set for his arrival. Arthur Lionel has been appointed building and plumbing inspector.

A motion introduced by Councilor Lorne Thomson asking the solicitor to provide in the Validating Act that Central Saanich could, by by-law, require electors to vote for as many candidates as there were vacancies, was passed.

Parliament Passes Payment Of Wheat Bonus; Quits For Easter

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federal government will pay $65,000,000 to western wheat farmers despite the objections of some members of the Commons and Senate.

The majority in the two Chambers, amid the customary rush surrounding a pre-Easter adjournment, voted Wednesday to authorize the payment. But the Senate, in its vote, made history.

Senator Norman Lambert (Lib.—Ontario) sponsored a motion to "strike out" the wheat payment. He said the move was the first time in history that the Upper Chamber had attempted to reduce a government supply bill.

The $65,000,000 was part of a bill covering an additional $201,000,000 in government expenditures for the 1950-51 fiscal year ending March 31. It will be paid western farmers in final settlement of the five year wheat pool operated while Canada filled a 600,000,000-bushel contract with the United Kingdom. The contract was filled last July 31.

The payment will work out to about 8.3 cents a bushel for wheat delivered during the 1945-1950 period. Some members have felt that the farmers should receive more; others that they should receive nothing.

With the wheat issue settled—at least for the time being—members of the Commons

RECORD LOW IN INFANT DEATHS

A further "remarkable reduction in the number of infant deaths in 1950" was reported by Dr. Joseph L. Gayton today in releasing the annual report of the Union Board of Health.

The rate dropped from 19.3 in 1949 to 14.3 per 1,000 live births last year.

Suggesting the record may stand for some time, Dr. Gayton said it "reflects great credit on the pre-natal care given mothers and on the intelligent care given the children during the first year of life."

COLEMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM COLEMAN

On those very rare occasions when Deacon Jack Allen is surprised, he merely blinks his eyes and conveys his gaze owlishly on the end of his cigar. As far as that goes, the world holds few surprises for The Deacon who has been assailed by the slings and arrows of countless outrageous fortunes since he quit Sacramento many years ago and embarked upon the career of a promoter of pugilistic enterprises. There isn't a city or town of any size in Canada in which he hasn't plied his promotional or managerial trade and, perforce, he knows many sheriffs and bailiffs by their first names.

Accordingly, The Deacon merely smirked amiably the other day when a stranger walked into his headquarters at Toronto's Walsingham Hotel. (In Mr. Allen's immediate circle, the Walsingham is known affectionately as "The Dancing Pig.") The stranger was a Winnipeg criminal lawyer whom The Deacon hadn't seen for 20 years.

"I make you immediately," quoth The Deacon, addressing his visitor. "You are the mouthpiece who springs us when they are going to throw us into the Winnipeg can when we are promoting one of those Walkathons during the depression."

Even The Deacon Can Be Shocked

"Right," checked the lawyer. "It was a grave miscarriage of justice. They were going to incarcerate you for some triviality such as non-payment of salaries to the contestants."

The Deacon hospitably handed the lawyer a fork and invited him to dig into a tin of shrimps which squatted on the desk. (The tin, not the shrimps, were squatting on the desk—the shrimps were dead.)

The silence was broken only by the slurping of shrimp as the Deacon went about the important business of opening his mail—a small matter which he had overlooked for the previous two or three weeks.

"Migawd," yelled The Deacon suddenly, his eyes blinking like an Aldis signal-lamp. "A female pugilist! Here's a letter from a (tomato named) Mamie O'Reilly who wants me to get her some bouts in Canada. She is willing to fight any woman in the country."

The Deacon was genuinely shocked. He has his own pugilistic standards and he believes that there is a time and place for every thing. He reasons that, if women wish to fight, they should confine those activities to their own homes.

'Born That Way,' Says Sir Ben

The only two honest-to-goodness female pugilists of whom your agent has heard were two ladies whose pictures used to adorn the walls of Sir Benjamin Stockley's old gymnasium on Church Street in Toronto. The two ladies were professional boxers who toured England in the later years of the last century. They resembled many other ladies, apart from the fact that they weren't developed on the generous proportions of Jane Russell or Lana Turner.

Sir Benjamin, who was a booth-fighter in his own days, is authority for the fact that the two charmers were superior boxers. "Could it like 'ell, too," says Sir Benjamin enthusiastically.

One reads a great deal about punch-drunk fighters whose brains, reputedly, were destroyed in the ring. Although box-fighting generally is a sordid business, the stories of punch-drunk fighters often are exaggerated. As Sir Benjamin Stockley says: "90 per cent of 'em was born punch-drunk."

He Started An Earthquake

Undoubtedly, numerous men have had their senses dulled by constant pounding around the sinuses but, as likely as not, they weren't over-endowed with intelligence before they first laced on a boxing glove.

The late W. O. McGeehan—the greatest of all sports columnists—used to tell the story of a befuddled little Negro ex-pugilist who became quite a lush around San Francisco in the early days of the century. He spent most of his time demanding free drinks at the San Francisco bar operated by Joe Geoghan.

One day, the bartender cut off the ex-pug's free drinks. Angriely, the little pug hammered the bar. When he received only a cold shoulder he grabbed the bar and started to shake it.

At that precise moment, along came the famous San Francisco earthquake. The building tumbled in ruins around the little pug.

As the dust cleared, the pug looked around him and surveyed the damage.

"Gee," he said fearfully, "Mr. Geoghan's going to be pretty mad at me for this."

P.C.H.L. SCORING

Dorohoy's Two Firsts Confirmed Officially

Official statistics on scoring leaders in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, released this week, confirm Victoria's Eddie Dorohoy at the top of the heap with his 86-point total. He is also tops in the assist department with 58.

Joe Bell of Seattle with 46 scored the most goals; Tacoma's Doug Adams scored the most game-winning goals, seven, and Adams' teammate, Ronnie Rowe, got three hat tricks to lead the league in triple-goal performances.

Lucien Dechene finished the season with the best goals-against average, 2.82 per game, and Norm Gustavsen of Tacoma amassed 171 minutes in the penalty box to lead the bad men.

Scoring leaders follow:

Boston Gains Final Playoff Spot; Sawchuk Leads In Vezina Cup Hunt

Boston Bruins have qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs, something they missed last season when they wound up in fifth place.

The Bruins entered the charmed circle last night when they defeated the last-place

Chicago Black Hawks 6 to 5, while New York Rangers were being eliminated by Detroit Red Wings, 4 to 1.

Last season it was the other way around, New York finishing fourth and Boston fifth.

In last night's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal Canadiens 2 to 0 in a game which considerably tightened the race for the Vezina Trophy.

The four teams to participate in the postseason playoffs are Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and Boston. The only thing in doubt now is whether Montreal or Boston will finish in third place, thus qualifying to meet Detroit.

ONE GOAL DIFFERENCE

The one goal allowed by Sawchuk was just one more than got by Al Rollins in the Leaf nets at Toronto. Each team has two games left to play, and Sawchuk has only a one-goal advantage on Toronto's combination of Rollins and Turk Broda in the campaign for the Vezina Trophy.

It goes to the goaltender playing the most games against it during the season. Rollins has played the most games for Toronto, which has had 137 goals scored against it this season. Sawchuk has played all Detroit games and has allowed 136 goals.

Round Robin Puck Series All Square

EDMONTON (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers came from behind last night to dump Edmonton Flyers 5 to 3 in the third game of a 12-game round-robin series for the Western Canada Senior Hockey League title.

All three teams in the series now sport identical records of one win and one loss. Calgary Stampede beat Saskatoon 7 to 3 in the first game and Flyers trimmed Stamps 3 to 0 in the second.

George Senick was the big gun for Quakers last night as he scored three goals. Cy Rouse and Alex Kuzma notched singles.

Cats, Eagles Set; Rockets Take Lead

Third-Period Outburst Whips Royals

The Tacoma Rockets swarmed back with a thrilling three-goal spurt in the final period to dump the defending champion New Westminster Royals 4 to 2 in the opening game of their Pacific Coast Hockey League semifinal playoffs.

It was another case of the underdogs upsetting the apple cart as Portland, fourth-place finishers in regular season play, had squeezed out a 4 to 3 double-overtime victory Tuesday night from the league-champion Victoria Cougars.

Nearly 4,000 home-town fans saw New Westminster enter the third period with a 2 to 1 advantage.

Burly Tacoma defenceman Joey Johns knotted the count at the six minute mark and Glen Rozzini put the Rockets ahead six minutes later.

Norm Gustavsen sank the final tally on a solo breakaway seconds before the final whistle.

PRATT MISSING

The Royals were playing without the services of coach Babe Pratt who was out with an attack of influenza. Owner Kenny MacKenzie handled the team in Pratt's absence.

Second game of the series will take place at Tacoma, Friday, with the third at New Westminster, Saturday, and the fourth at Tacoma, Sunday.

Summary follows:

TACOMA 4-NEW WESTMINSTER 2

First Period—1, New Westminster, LaVill, 11:42; 2, Tacoma, Howe (Johnson), 15:35.

Second Period—2, New Westminster, Grah (Paul), 5:04; Penalty: Hordle.

Leger Hopeful Of Squaring Series Tonight

Both Victoria Cougars and Portland Eagles were confident of victory today as they awaited tonight's second game of their P.C.H.L. semifinal at the Memorial Arena.

Eagles who won the first game Tuesday, 4 to 3, will be at full strength. Wingery George Homenuke originally reported as having suffered torn ligaments in his leg has had the injury diagnosed, and it is nothing more than a severe charley horse.

Homenuke flew to Vancouver for treatment Wednesday and will be in uniform tonight.

Portland coach, Tony Hemmerling also left town yesterday presumably to attend the playoff between New Westminster and Tacoma at the Royal City last night.

TIRED BUT READY

On the Cougars home front, coach Roger Leger said his boys "were tired but ready."

A sellout crowd is expected, although general manager Fred Hutchinson said this morning that there were still tickets available. However, these are expected to be taken up by game time.

Third game of the set is scheduled for Portland Sunday.

MINOR SOCCER

Army, Navy and Air Force Vets will meet Mac's Champs at lower Beacon Hill Saturday afternoon, while Argosy Cafe's fourth and fifth division teams play an exhibition at Heywood Avenue.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

Hockey fans will be talking about Tuesday's night overtime game with Portland Eagles for some time to come but Old Timers will tell you that extra time games in Victoria's great hockey history are nothing new.

The real old soaks can go back to 1914—perhaps even before that—for a game that went 36 minutes and 49 seconds of overtime before Victoria won the league championship by defeating New Westminster.

Then on Feb. 21, 1919, Victoria and Vancouver fought for 37 minutes and 20 seconds of extra time before Clem Loughlin notched the winner for Victoria.

That same year on Feb. 2, Victoria and Seattle were involved in another lengthy contest with the Capitals once again coming on top when Wilf Loughlin netted the tie-breaker.

But for the game that will go down in hockey history as the greatest ever played here one has to go back to "Moose Johnson Night," March 4, 1921. The "Moose" was up here a couple of months back and relived some of his former glories, but it was on this night that the "overtime" game of all "overtime" games was played.

That was the night that Victoria and Seattle battled through regulation time and three full 20-minute overtime periods before the contest was called. It was called because of the sheer exhaustion on the part of the players.

At the end of the sixth period, a hockey record at the time, manager Lester Patrick went to his team's dressing-room and found the players in distress.

He visited the Seattle dressing-room and found the condition of their players equally as bad.

One Game That Was Called

Patrick then conferred with Happy Holmes, who was in charge of the Metropolitans that night in the absence of the manager, Pete Muldoon. A solution was arrived at when both agreed that it would be inhuman to send the players back on the ice again.

The fans were satisfied. They had come to pay tribute to "The Moose" and had witnessed the longest and one of the most gripping games in ice-hockey history.

The score was three to three, and for the benefit of any old-timers who may have forgotten—as if any would forget such a memorable occasion—the goalkeepers for Victoria were Clem Loughlin on a pass from Eddie Oatman in the second period and Wilf Loughlin and Harry Meeking in the third.

In latter years in the N.H.L. two games were played which exceeded the six periods here, but it must be remembered that N.H.L. rosters grew with the succeeding years and teams stripped many more players than the nine which took the ice on "Moose Johnson Night."

Players who participated in that contest were reported as being at a low physical ebb for weeks following the contest.

It was shortly after this that club owners realized the disastrous effect unlimited overtime had on the playing life of the players and instituted the "one period of overtime only" rule.

Today, even with greater manpower, few leagues play overtime during the regular schedule.

They've Come Back Before

Just how Tuesday night's rugged tussle may have affected the Cougars will not be known until tonight. The kids were tiring badly in the third period and first 20 minutes of extra play but appeared on their way back as the sudden ending came.

However, coach Roger Leger boasts the youngest club in the circuit and the strain shouldn't be too great on the players. One of the Cougars' main fortes through the season was their late game drive.

It's quite possible that the Cougars may have shot their bolt in the wide open first period Tuesday when they were gambling almost recklessly on getting an early lead. Portland played "cozy-like" during the first 20 minutes but were coming on as the game progressed.

Tonight's game is a big one for the Cougars. They realize the importance of the result more than anyone else. A defeat and they face the task of beating the Eagles on Portland ice in order to bring the series back to Victoria. A victory and the series will be squared, assuring the Cats of at least another game here a week from tonight.

PICKING UP THE PIECES... Sprinter Bob Hutchison arrived back in town from the University of Washington Wednesday singing the praises of Victoria's Peter Salmon... "Pete," said Bob, "was just two-tenths of a second off the world record for the 50-yards freestyle recently, and he accomplished the feat while suffering from a mild attack of the flu..."

When Lynn Patrick put his Boston Bruins in the N.H.L. playoffs last night it marked a special occasion... all three Patricks—Victoria's Lester, Tacoma's Muzz and Boston's Lynn—have now attained post-season berths...

Barrett To Call A's Roll Monday

Manager Dick Barrett of Victoria Athletics will have the chore of sorting starters and relief men from a phalanx of 13 pitchers when he and business manager Reg Patterson arrive at Athletics' spring training camp at Santa Rosa, California, Monday.

Among the hurlers who will be on hand for the session are Jim Hedgecock, being sent down by the Portland Beavers, Jim Probst, John Brkich and Aldon Wilkie—all southpaws—and Don Tierney, Bill Osborn, John Marshall, Ron Smith, Dick Walbel, Warren Noyes and Barrett himself.

Five other mound men are to be assigned to the Athletics camp by the Beavers, according to Patterson, who was in town briefly this week to attend the annual meeting of the Athletics board of directors.

SMALLER BOARD
The meeting reduced the size of the board to seven, headed by president J. V. Johnson, vice-president George Straith and secretary-treasurer Eric A. Cox. Other directors are Ray Parfitt, Francis Norton, Vic Clarke and Howard Harmon.

The shareholders voted to increase capitalization by $25,000, from $50,000 to $75,000—and to continue efforts to sell shares to the public.

In addition to the pitchers going to Santa Rosa, Patterson listed outfielders Gene Thompson from Portland; Bill White, who was with Victoria three years ago; Tommy O'Loughlin from Salt Lake City; and possibly Doug Jackson, a Cuban who was at the Portland camp.

The A's manager listed four holdouts: catcher Hal Danielson, first baseman Marty Krug, and pitchers Wilkie and Noyes. Athletics will play an exhibition game here on Aug. 6 against Portland.

CITY MEDAL PLAY

The last city medal golf competition will be played at Colwood Golf Course on Sunday. The draw will be made tomorrow evening.

GOOD FRIDAY CLASSIC

Army Signals To Help Keep Track Of Racers

Something new will be introduced to the annual Britannia Legion road race tomorrow. The 5th Area Signals Squadron, under Capt. Harry Evers, will install a wireless signal network over the route to keep spectators at the starting point informed of the progress of the race.

Late entries from Naden and the Y.M.C.A. assured a good contest in all three events.

Starting at 10:30, the senior 10-milers will get off from the Blanshard Street mark, running up Pandora to Oak Bay Junction, along Fort, Foul Bay Road, Lansdowne, Beach Drive, Windsor, Newport, Oak Bay Avenue and Pandora, back to the starting point.

The intermediate two-and-a-half mile course will be up Pandora to the Junction and return, while the juniors will start up Pandora as far as Cook, around the green and return.

The intermediate race will start at 10:40 and the junior at 10:50.

YOUNG'S TRY GIVES BAYS RUGBY TROPHY

Eighth Straight Inter-School Win

Walt Young was the hero of yesterday's eighth winning of the Howard Russell trophy by Oak Bay's senior rugby squad. Young crossed the line midway through the first half for the only score of the game, downing Vic High in the annual classic 3 to 0.

The series went to Oak Bay in straight games. They won last week's opener 8 to 5.

CLOSE CONTEST

Yesterday's game, originally scheduled for Monday, but postponed as some of the Bays were injured, was closely contested throughout.

The high wind made kicking almost impossible. The ball was blown off course every time it was thrown in on a line-out, making the game one continual "scrum down."

Brian Cox at fullback was the outstanding player for Vic High.

UNDEFEATED

In junior rugby the undefeated Victoria High School squad won the title by defeating the runner-up Esquimalt team 11 to 3. Charlie Bishop and Pete Ash made tries for Vic High while George Wright crossed the line for Esquimalt. Ash also made a conversion and a field goal.

CHANGE ANNOUNCED IN JUVENILE DAY PROGRAM

Secretary Jim Allan of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association has announced a change in tomorrow's Juvenile Day first game at Athletic Park. With Vancouver juvenile playoffs held up because of bad weather, a game between Vets of France and Heaneys for the Lower Island junior championship has been set to open the day at 11 in the morning.

The Firemen-Vic West challenge game will be held at 1. followed by the Victoria United-Victoria District All Stars at 2.30.

WESTS SEEK REPEAT WIN OVER OAK BAY

Jackson Cup Replay Scheduled For Sunday; United To Meet Esquimalt In Semifinal Match

Victoria Wests will be out to do it again Sunday. Victors over Oak Bay last week-end in Jackson Cup soccer play. Wests saw their win vanish with a puff of remonstrance from the Victoria and District Football League executive.

The league upheld an Oak Bay protest against the use of Murray Speller, who played a big part in the triumph. Speller, a former United player, had not received a proper release.

The game will be replayed at 2.15 Sunday afternoon on the lower Beacon Hill pitch. Winner will advance into the semifinals against Britannia Legion.

WILL TEST UNITED

On Saturday afternoon at 2.15, Victoria United will meet Esquimalt in the first semifinal game to be held. United won over Duncan last week-end, and Esquimalt won a semifinal berth on the strength of their elimination of Alcos two weeks ago.

Also scheduled for Sunday, at Duncan, is a postponed Heaneys-Duncan league fixture. The game will start at 2.30 in the afternoon on the Duncan pitch.

BOUCHER TO MAKE GOOD ON HIS WORD

NEW YORK (CP)—Frank Boucher has put his job as manager of New York Rangers on the line.

Fulfilling a promise made last December, the veteran of 25 years with the Ranger organization told a reporter last night that since the Blues failed to make the National Hockey League playoffs he will offer his resignation to Madison Square Garden Corporation, owners of the Rangers.

The Rangers faded from the Stanley Cup playoff picture last night when Detroit Red Wings handed them a 4 to 1 defeat and Boston edged Chicago 6 to 5.

KITCHENER LINE HELPS

Maple Leafs Capture Churchill Cup Opener

LONDON (Reuter) — Lethbridge Maple Leafs, now fighting to add the Winston Churchill Cup to their newly-won world hockey title, are a good hockey team. Fans here and in France still are not sure just how good.

Let's face it. The westerners—aided by a high-scoring trio from Kitchener, Ont.—retained the global crown against six other teams in Paris that weren't as tough competition as the champions would have met in their intermediate league in Canada.

Some European teams showed good hockey ability. The Swedes, with their crisp criss-crossing passes inside the blue line, strict positional play and well-schooled shooting ability, were dangerous. The Swiss—high-flying speed boys with a swashbuckling rush and a prayer—also took some beating.

Saroyans To Rewed

'Tis Spring... Tra-la-la!

Now wasn't Sunday the loveliest day, Spring, I'm sure, is on the way. I went outside, of the air took a gust; I grabbed my shovel and started to dig. Great hunks of earth I flipped & spun, as thru my spine I felt the sun. When I struck a rock, as I did at length, I didn't even know my strength. Hefty blows in the hardpan, then I picked it up, like Superman. "Aren't you," she asked, "overdoing it? Don't you think you should rest a bit?" "Naw," I replied, all full of bustle, just look at the sun, ripple these muscles. "O.K.," she replied, as I warned "look-out," "but remember that time you knocked yourself out?" "Don't worry, my dear, myself I won't hurt," faster than ever flew the dirt. Back & forth I went with a will, getting the nod from a daffodil. The first to open that I could see, in a clump beside, under a tree. A better setting this oak did make, than Wordsworth's picture beside a lake. The main difference I thought, as I nearly did sever, HIS daffodils will breeze on forever. There's a difference, too, in the chrome we sell, the quality there, says our clientele. We insist, with a very stern face, that NUT HITS 'S too dining space. I paused by the fence, proud of my show, when a cheery robin swooped rather low. He settled down, I heard him declare, "sure nice fat worms you're digging there." "Aren't they, though, & why so dumb? I won't hurt," come "if have some." He listened a moment to what I had said, as he jerked to one side, his perky head. Then he hopped forward & grabbed a worm, then he took off, all full of squirm.

these trees, I decided to sit. A bee was buzzin, weak was my marrow, so I sprawled on my back, in this wheel-barrow. I looked up in the tree, a nice pussy-willow, took off my hat, which I used for a pillow. I felt all tingly, there in the heat, just as YOU would on a Chesterfield suite. The sun beat down, to melt me like candles, I dozed off to sleep with my feet on the handles. When I awoke with my legs hanging down, I was covered all over with our wine-elderdown. I raised myself up, to rubber-neck, but I couldn't twist for the crick in my neck. I stood on my feet, mist the rocks & the boulders, & pulled the Elder up over my shoulders. I slouched to the house, where I fell in a heap, "why, H-E-L-L-O," said the G.F., "did you have a nice sleep?" "I'm not speaking to you," my look was narrow, "I've wasted my day, in that dirty wheel-barrow." I turned on the bath, but I just couldn't sing, I felt I'd been robbed, of the FIRST DAY OF SPRING.

YOUNG TALENT HEARD

Student Recital Presented By Musical Arts Society

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

The talented students' recital with which the Victoria Musical Art Society has concluded its winter series of concerts for the last few years, was presented Wednesday night in the Memorial Hall. It proved to be one of the best within memory, demonstrating not only the gratifying amount of talent among the city's students, but also the excellent training available.

Confidence and understanding was evident in the lively characterization of "Don Durke," by Norman Wilkinson, delivered in a clearly enunciated voice, was repeated in the sweet singing of Gail Holloway. Altogether there were three vocal soloists on the program and all three have remarkable promise. Catherine Dixon's voice is a lovely clear soprano of considerable flexibility, which she uses simply and with restraint. The most mature musical performance came from June Milburn with Purcell's lovely lament, "When I am Laid in Earth." This was sincere and deeply affecting.

Marie Milburn's playing of a Bach Siciliano and the Mousorgsky-Rachmaninoff "Hopak," revealed her to be an outstanding student of the violin.

An accomplished performance by Muriel and Vivian Trimble as duo pianists, playing the last movement of the Mozart D Major Sonata, was a highlight of the program. A pianist of brilliant musical gifts, Patricia Shakespeare played the A Flat Ballade of Chopin. George Essihos also shows signs of developing into a fine concert artist.

Other promising piano students heard last night were Vicky Vigar, Ann McFadyen, Margaret Richmond, Michael Kersey and Lorna Stuart.

Some musically sound ensemble work had an important place on the program. The highly talented violin-playing Oulton twins, John and William, with clever little Ilace Norris at the piano, played two Pleyel numbers. An able performance of Purcell's Golden Sonata was given by a trio consisting of Bernard Rain and Douglas Erikson, violinists, and Mary Cameron pianist.

Norma Greig, Marjorie Gilbert, Carolyn Sinkinson, Marjorie Durnin and Sonia Slusarko were members of a well-trained choral speech group.

STERLING HAYDEN GETS 'LAST CHANCE' IN 'SKID ROW' ROLE

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sterling Hayden claims he now is getting his third and maybe last chance in the movie business.

Actually, I don't think his plight is as desperate as that. He is one of those tall, rugged types who seem to be indestructible in movies. But Hayden is one of the most self-analytical of actors and he berates himself for not having secured his film position before now.

He got his first chance before the war. He rose from obscurity to appear with his future (and now ex-) wife, Madeleine Carroll, in two films, "Virginia" and "Bahama Passage."

"I sloughed the whole thing off," he admitted. Hayden went off to the war with no regrets about leaving the movie business. A lot of people didn't expect him to return to Hollywood, but he did.

Then came Hayden's second chance. He was picked to play the lead of the hoodlum in "Asphalt Jungle."

"But I missed on that one, too," he remarked. Despite his modesty, Hayden was a big enough hit to perform a rare feat in the movie business: he returned to a contract at his former studio, Paramount. But another stalemate ensued. During his six months there, he was given only one role.

When a loan-out to Republic was suggested, Hayden

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

Everybody knows that an ace will usually win a trick. It is not quite so well known, however, that the player who holds the ace should try to capture a high card with it. This will tend to promote the value of lesser honors in the partnership hands.

Once this principle of promotion is thoroughly understood, it is possible to go one step farther. You not only try to get good value for your own aces, but you also try to make the opponents get poor value for theirs. This principle was the background of the play of today's hand.

West opened the king of diamonds, and dummy won with the ace. South saw that he would sooner or later have to lose two diamonds and a club. The best chance to avoid defeat consisted in making three club tricks, so that South's losing heart could be discarded on a good club.

Declarer began by cashing dummy's ace of spades, and continued by leading the next trump to the ten in his own hand. Then he could lead a low club toward dummy. It was obvious from West's bidding that the ace of clubs was in that hand, and South wanted West to get only low clubs with the ace.

West properly played his low club, and dummy won with the jack. A careless player might have returned a club and put up the king from the South hand, but this declarer was not careless. He led the jack of spades to his own queen, and then led back his remaining low club.

This time West had to play his ace. Dummy could play low, and now nothing could stop South from making three club tricks and the contract.

If South had sacrificed the king of clubs in order to knock out West's ace, dummy would win tricks with the queen and jack of clubs, but not with the five of clubs. By then East's

A—Pass. The hand is not rich enough in high cards for an opening bid, and the distribution is nothing to rave about. Contrast this hand with those discussed earlier this week.

Ottawa Players Win Drama Award

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The Ottawa Drama League's Junior Theatre Wednesday night won the Senator Rupert Davies trophy—major award—in the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival for its production of "Pinocchio."

Adjudicator Robert G. Newton said he found the production delightful and a "real piece of the art."

The Fulford Shield, given for the best one-act play, was awarded to the Perth Thespian Society for its production of "Mac And The Atom," by Vancouver playwright Eric P. Nicol.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Maiden

XL

The coming of another wagon—Freeman's Express, this time—made them pull to the side of the road.

Letty's quick rush of anxiety about Jervis Braid was followed by a brisk self-questioning. She asked herself if she would be equally anxious about any other naval officer sent on such a mission? She tried to tell herself that most certainly she would—especially if she had happened to meet him. But she knew otherwise.

On through the trees they went, with the wind blowing up the Strait, and with glimpses, now and then, of the great, snow-capped mountains on the other side. That was America, over there—a country at war. How could those gleaming peaks, those peaceful, purple valleys that stretched so high into the haze of distance, belong to a people at war?

Houses began to appear again—not miner's tents, this time, but substantial frame, and even a few brick houses. Shops began to line the roads again, and at last, over the brow of a hill, they came to Esquimalt itself.

Letty's heart thrilled at the sight of it... at the sight of the three big new-o-war lying at anchor offshore, and the white sails of a frigate standing out to sea. Warehouses and shipping offices crowded one another along the wharveside, and over them, into the clean air, rose the masts and spars of all those bigger ships that could not make the shallower port of Victoria.

The seagulls screamed and

Want 2 Projectionists

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will write the provincial government urging that no change be made to the Fire Marshals Act, which would allow theatres to have only one projectionist on duty, instead of two.

banked and wheeled, and the flags of many nations... of Britain and France, of the United States of America, of Panama to the south and Russia to the north... dipped and waved in a stiff, clean breeze. Liberty boats piled busily from the gleaming poles to the wharf to the distant warships, and bigger ferryboats were tied alongside the big merchantmen anchored in the Roads, to take off men and goods, and carry them around the peninsula to Victoria.

Bluejackets were everywhere—with plenty of money in their pockets, and little time ashore. And scarlet-jacketed marines vied with them for the pretty apple-cheeked girls of 'Squimalt.

Round to the right, and out of the main crowds, Mr. Cridge led the horses now, bringing them down to a slow walk. They were hot and tired, and the trail ahead lay up a steep, green hillside.

"Over the top of this hill, my dear, you'll see Craigallan School—down by the water's edge, on the Victoria Arm. I hope you're going to like it."

"I hope it's going to like me!" said Letty.

Up the hill they went, and she mounted the crest with a thrill of anticipation. On the top she reined in her horse and looked down for a moment at the scene before them.

Over in the distance rose the blue-green hills of Sooke. Beneath, two arms of water opened and held, as if in friendly embrace, the meadows and the gently-sloping farmlands that stretched along the rocky edge and up the valleys towards the dark fringes of the forest.

In these meadows Letty could make out a few horses. A herd of cows was being driven through a gate towards the main farm buildings that dominated the scene and despite the background of the wintry fields, white poultry dotted the distance, giving the slope of land a friendly, habitable look.

"You see that building over on the hillside—to the left there? That's the Langley's farm. And that small white schoolhouse—the one with two floors? That's Craigallan School. I fancy Mr. Carstairs'll be waiting for us."

A pleasant place it looked, down on the green edge of the water, with trees and bushes growing here and there in the field, up to the very door of it. How sweet a spot for children this must be in spring and summer!

Down the steep trail they went, with the crowds of people left behind them now, and only an occasional farmer on horseback or a few Indians on foot, moving about this peaceful hollow in the hills.

At length they were level with the sea arm again, and Mr. Cridge led the way along a well-worn path from the road to the schoolhouse door. As they approached it they could hear the quick jumble of small voices repeating some sentence in un-even union.

By ART STOTT

Those students of human events who keep up with the times by reading the comics have something to stir thought this week. Out of the luxuriant growth of folklore in three-color creation, comes a feature devoted by its creator to an educational theme.

In the current issue the hero is resting his muscles and exercising his brain. The hero can read. But he's confused by the different languages he encounters in Switzerland.

The signs there are written in French, Italian and German. Such a condition is impossible, says another character, adding: "No three different kinds of people could get along so well and so peaceful."

Stott

THEN THE CREATOR of the strip comes into his work in his own handwriting to say it's not impossible.

"I saw it in Switzerland. Three different kinds of people—speaking three different languages springing from three different backgrounds—people who all through history have been blood-enemies—and, yet, here, they live side by side in peace."

"For, in this one tiny spot on Earth, they have learned what a Great Teacher tried to teach all of us. That, no matter what our differences are, each of us is the other's brother, for all of us are children of the same Father."

The producer of that strip is a smart operator. He has given the world some amazing personalities and institutions. The world, at least the North American section of it, has shown its appreciation by giving him a lot of dollars.

HIS EASTER EVE comic picks up an old lesson and a good lesson—one we used to learn in school and Sunday school. The example of Switzerland—though it can be given a twist of economic materialism and political expediency—is still one to be brought to public notice whenever possible.

The artist has given it prominence through a medium that reaches millions. Probably no single event in the entire observance of Education Week earlier this month centred as much attention on as vital a message as the comic is doing.

But you can't help feeling a chill running up and down your spine when you realize that fact. Educational messages stand more chance of getting through to the majority of people if they're presented in the comic strips. What other written form is read by so many who appear to need an educational message?

MAYBE THIS is the lowest common denominator. Maybe this is the best way to get something across to the people as a whole. Some of my scholarly friends are going to be a little worried by the process, though. What price their erudition, their years of study, their problings into the philosophies? So often they speak only to the minority. Close as they may be to truth, their words are a secret shared only with the lodge members.

Theirs is a breeze which whippers to the flower of cultivated intellectuality. The comics are reaching down to the grass roots.

Perhaps we should worry about this trend. Perhaps we should worry about the present debate in the United States on television's educational influence. Video isn't going to upset a lot of us for some time here. Pay cheque arithmetic provides something of an answer there.

JUST THE SAME, Town Meeting a few weeks ago went into the question in its usual stimulating way, debating the subject: "Is Television an Asset or Liability to Education?" And the spokesman for commercial interests came up with an indicative remark to one of the educationists on the panel. Said the spokesman: "You know I like to think of professors... worrying about their Hooper rating. Somehow or other I fancy that the techniques of education could be much more easily adapted now to television if that kind of worrying had been more a part of the technique of the teaching processes through the years."

Pulling buns out of oven is Baker Norrington.

Norrington tests his handiwork.

MUST ADMIT VICTORIA IS WINDY CITY

Chamber of Commerce may not like this but Victoria is finally admitting it is a windy city.

Finance committee today decided to recommend to City Council Tuesday it add an "additional perils supplemental contract" to the general insurance of city-owned property to take care of wind hazard among other things. Cost will be $200 a year.

"It's long overdue," said Ald. Frank Mulliner, referring to the city's $2,000 cost of replacement for bleachers this year in Royal Athletic Park, owing to wind damage.

Boy's Holdup Story False

Saanich police officials today were considering what action should be taken against a boy who led police on a "wild goose chase" for 14 hours before they found out that his story was untrue.

Sixteen-year-old Bernard Johnson, 1655 Cedar Hill Road, told police two masked men stopped him while he was driving along Faltham Road Tuesday evening, made him proceed down an unused driveway, robbed him of his wallet containing $9 and fled into the woods.

Sgt. Jack Hamilton and Juvenile Officer William Pearson spent most of Wednesday investigating the case.

QUARTER MILLION OF THEM Hot Cross Buns Hold Old-Time Popularity

By HUMPHREY DAVY
"One a penny, two a penny—hot cross buns," was a famous cry of street peddlers on Good Friday in the days of grandma's grandma.

Today the peddler and his cry have disappeared from city streets but the traditional bun served piping hot on Good Friday is still as popular as it was hundreds of years ago.

This was evident from the number of hot cross buns made today by local bakers for Victorians. It was estimated that about 250,000 buns were baked from 4:30 this morning until noon.

NOT 'ONE A PENNY' NOW

The buns are made much the same way as they always were but the price would make the old-time peddlers weep. They sell between 45 and 50 cents a dozen.

Bakers are as much annoyed at the rise in price as their customers. They wish they could sell them at "one a penny." But the price of ingredients makes this impossible, they said.

But regardless of the rise in prices, there will be few Victoria homes without the tasty buns on Friday. The stores were packed today with people buying them.

There was no need for peddlers to sell them because they have now become a "must" in every home.

With regard to a request that the city pay the S.S. and M.A. tax on certain materials and equipment, Mr. Patton said delays of the company contributed almost entirely to the charge and were therefore "not the concern of the city."

Say Delay Put Ice Cost Up

Escalator claims of Canadian Ice Machine Co., in connection with the Arena refrigeration contract, are not the responsibility of the city, in the opinion of City Solicitor Arthur J. Patton.

Reporting to finance committee today on the company's contract to supply and install a refrigeration plant in the Arena, Mr. Patton felt extra charges resulted from "an unwarranted delay caused by the company."

Warrant was ordered issued for the arrest of Frank A. Farrow after the court was informed he had paid up his hospital insurance premiums but had not paid the $5 fine accompanying it.

Youngsters Attend Easter Service

About 50 children, of from three to five years of age, paraded to Christ Church Cathedral today for an Easter service conducted by Rev. John Vanderleith.

The children, from the Memorial Hall and James Bay groups of the Christ Church Cathedral co-operative play groups, marched from Memorial Hall to the cathedral where they placed their flowers in the children's corner.

Mr. Vanderleith gave a sermon, especially for children, after which the young congregation gathered around the organ and sang Easter hymns.

Their leaders, Mrs. Helen Low of Memorial Hall, and Mrs. Enid Webster of James Bay, then took the youngsters back to Memorial Hall for refreshments.

Six Music Stands Given To Boys' Band

Six music stands were donated Wednesday night to the Victoria Boys' Band by members of the orchestra of Gary Galbraith.

The presentation was made at the annual dance of the Jill Tars Club. The dance was held to raise funds for the Red Cross. The orchestra and the hall were donated for the benefit.

Kenney Jubilant Over Gas Find In Peace River Area

Should Result In Extensive Exploration

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said today the blowing in of a "good-sized" natural gas well near Dawson Creek in the Peace River announced overnight should stimulate exploration work in the province.

"It confirms the idea we have had all along that the B.C. Peace River has natural gas fields and probably oil fields," the minister said.

Details of the "find" were received by Mr. Kenney today and he was not making any attempt to hide his jubilant spirits at receiving the news.

"This is real fine news for us to take home for the holiday week-end," he smiled.

It was the Sunrise Well No. 3 of the Peace River Natural Gas Company, a subsidiary of Pacific Petroleum Ltd., which blew in.

The well is located northwest of Dawson Creek near the Alaska Highway.

Drilling started March 1 had reached a depth between 3,086 and 3,126 feet.

Capacity tested through the drill hole was 1,450,000 cubic feet. It was estimated the daily output would run between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 cubic feet a day.

"This is a good-sized well in any man's country," the minister said.

Judge Charges Jury In Trial Of R. Gallop

Mr. Justice N. W. Whitaker in Assize Court this afternoon began his charge to the jury in the case of 20-year-old Roy Gallop, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Dorothy Irvine, killed in a Colwood collision last Sept. 2.

Crown Prosecutor Carew Martin, and Lloyd McKenzie, defence counsel, completed their address to jury at noon.

The Crown prosecutor claimed there was sufficient evidence to prove that the young man was responsible for the collision which took the lives of two persons and injured seven others.

Mr. McKenzie, defence counsel, earlier pointed out that the Crown had failed to prove conclusively that Gallop was driver of the Chevrolet coupe which crashed head-on into Irvine's car.

The defence lawyer also pointed out that there was some conflicting evidence with regard to the speed the Chevrolet coupe was travelling on the Island Highway.

MOST B.C. FAMILIES GETTING ALLOWANCE HAVE ONE CHILD

There are more families in British Columbia with only one child on family allowance than there are in any other bracket, according to figures released by W. R. Bone, regional director of Family Allowances.

Statistics show that there are 68,164 families with one child, 55,747 with two children, and 23,331 with three. This would indicate that families are getting smaller in the province.

It was also reported that allowance totals continued to mount with $1,867,142 being paid during March for 313,525 children in 161,088 families.

As to the family movement in and out of B.C. during March, a total of 244 families arrived from other parts of the Dominion while 220 departed.

C.C.F.ers Admit Trouble With Faction In Party

C.C.F. members of the Legislature were non-committal today on reports from Vancouver that a "serious division" has appeared within the ranks of the party in the mainland city.

The party leader, Harold Winch, was unavailable for comment. He left for Trail Wednesday to sit as the employees' representative on a conciliation board in a dispute between West Kootenay Power and Light Co. and one of the electricians' unions.

Other members of the seven-man Opposition of the Legislature indicated some difficulties were being experienced at Vancouver.

"But," said Randolph Harding, C.C.F. member for Kaslo-Slocan, "I don't think it is as serious as some people would like to make out."

He and other party M.L.A.s thought some official statement may be made over the week-end following a meeting at Vancouver of the provincial executive of the C.C.F. on Saturday.

The Vancouver report says the national executive of the party had issued a statement saying activities of a group within the C.C.F. at Vancouver called the "Socialist Fellowship" will not be tolerated.

The executive's statement said it was evident the "Socialist Fellowship" had developed all the characteristics of another political party in which members pay dues and are required to pledge to it their loyalty, a loyalty which it declares must take precedence over that to the C.C.F.

"The C.C.F. cannot tolerate within itself another political organization for which its constitution makes no provision and over which it has no control," the national executive statement reads.

"The council therefore notes with deep concern the situation that has developed in B.C. and expresses the hope that the organization in B.C. will deal with this matter promptly and efficiently."

The Vancouver report says the "Socialist Fellowship" at a December meeting adopted a resolution urging non-support of the United Nations which it termed "an agency of capitalist thought and action."

It is possible that the B.C. executive will expel the group from the C.C.F. at the Saturday meeting.

Easter Rabbit, Penny Go Chocolate Hunting

By PENNY SAVER

As I walked from one store to another this fine day, seemed to me I was being followed. Every time I turned around I thought I saw . . . not a putty tat . . . but a long-eared critter. A rabbit, no less!

True, it's an Easter spirit that prevails these days before the holiday, but fancy a rabbit . . . and I don't mean pal Harvey . . . interested in the flowers and tall rabbits to adorn a festive table setting. The sum of 25 pennies pays for all but the rabbit, he's 10 pennies more.

Flowers by the bouquet, corsage or rooted in a pot, to win the little woman's heart, are available in great colorful quantities.

Daffodils, grown out in the fresh fields surrounding our city, will be wrapped up in 50-cent bundles. For the graded beauties, you'll pay anywhere from $1 up, a dozen. Tulips in all shades and sizes, $2 the dozen . . . snapdragons, a dollar more and iris, the same price.

Standing tall and gracious are the lilies in their foil-wrapped pots tied with generous ribbon bows. For double blooms of the stately flower you'll pay $2, for three blooms, approximately $2.75. I'm told the plants are taller this year than last.

You'll find roses are scarce this year, but of course you'll always find a 50-cent bunch of fragrant little violets.

Hey, there, mom, if you haven't been able to locate a bunny rabbit cookie cutter, I've got news for you. I found one this morning . . . but there's a catch, and isn't there always? This popular rabbit has two partners. One, a gingerbread man, the other, a pig. All three belong in the 50-cent set.

Last, but not the least of my findings, were the best grade of chocolate chickens, rabbits and the like, selling anywhere from 15 pennies and up. Cream-filled eggs are 49 cents a pound and baskets from 39 cents up.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Nice Hipline Will Help
Women Feel Younger

Women are whoopeless unless they are hipless. Well, not hipless, but a nice smooth hipline can make us feel pretty youthful while large bulges on the thighs and shelf-like hips can make us feel older and awkward. Even when a good girl does a good job we still know the bulges are there.

Once in a while fashion is kind to the large-hipped lady but pencil skirts still persist as a part of style and nothing can save you for a swim suit except figure-molding exercises.

Today I am going to give you a "whacking," and I mean whacking, good exercise for the hips and the thighs.

Sit on the floor with legs stretched out on the floor in front of you and hands resting in your lap. Swing your arms to the right as you bend both knees and twist the hips to the left, slapping the left thigh against the floor. Now swing the arms to the left as you twist the hips to the right and slap the right thigh against the floor. Continue, lifting the legs and twisting and slapping, first to one side and then the other, arms swinging in the opposite direction.

If this is too difficult for you at first the exercise is still valuable if you place one hand on each side, and a bit back of you, and keep the fingertips on the floor as you flop from side to side. The coordination and balance of the exercise is more difficult when you swing the arms.

OTHERWISE OKAY

Many women with the correct number of pounds and good bust and waist measurements find that their figure is out-of-line because of a very large hipline.

If you would like to have my tested hip reducing exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Wife Lacks Interest In Work Since Husband
Admitted Love For Her Less Strong Than When Married; How Ease Panic?

Dear Mary Haworth: It is six years since my husband, Bruce, returned from the Army. He is 36 and I am 30. We have gotten along beautifully and seem to have everything in common, except for one small thing, which is that he told me recently that his love for me isn't as strong as it was. That knocked the props right out from under me, although as a matter of fact we still get on wonderfully.

I have questioned Bruce about the change and he says he doesn't know himself. He has been true to me and says he still loves me; but the feeling I have, that the certain sparkle has vanished, is driving me mad. He tells me that I should get away from home once in a while and enjoy myself, but I don't care to go out except when we go out together on Saturday nights.

Bruce has one night a week with the boys, which is perfectly all right with me, as I think a working man is entitled to that, and I have never tried to stop it. But unfortunately he seems to lose all sense of time and doesn't return until the wee hours of the morning, and I don't approve on such terms. Why should he stay but to those hours? I know he doesn't do anything wrong and he doesn't do heavy drinking.

As I say, I don't much care to go out. I would just as soon relax at home with a book or radio program. But should I go out and not be at home when he returns at 2 or 3 a.m.? Do you think he might then appreciate me more? What can I do to regain his wholehearted interest? Living in the same house with him, knowing that some quality of feeling has vanished, is almost unbearable. I have lost all interest in my work. What shall I do?—V. L.

WIFE'S BEHAVIOR IS TOO DEPENDENT

Dear V. L.: It occurs to me that Bruce is getting bored with your narrowly parasitical attachment and ingrown behavior, whereby you constitute yourself a kind of deadweight in his experience. In order to keep alive "that certain sparkle" in married love, there must be growth in the relationship itself. And that means that the partners must grow as individuals, each incorporating into his personality an increasing store of constructive social interests, as the years pass. It is a grievous mistake to suppose that sex attraction or romantic sentiment can be sustained indefinitely on the same old fare, so to speak, in a given relationship. Change is the theme of existence. And either it is change for better or for worse. There is no "standing still." Stagnation may look like no change, for a time, but underneath deterioration is insidiously at work in that state. And I think this is the psychological condition of your marriage at present.

Bruce is testifying to a sense that conjugal intimacy lacks the intoxicating quality of honeymoon years, at least for him. But that is not necessarily a negation of love, as he dimly realizes and tries to make clear by giving assurance that he is still faithful and true, if not so intense about it nowadays. Your terrified reaction to the statement indicates that you feel utterly dependent upon his emotional support to keep you afloat in life, and that you suppose you owe him unalloyed sex satisfaction in payment for this, or have no greater value in his sight—hence the panicky dread of rejection, since he intimated waning fervor.

OUGHT TO DEVELOP
LARGER USEFULNESS

Bruce is groping in the right direction, even if he can't define his objective, in telling you to get away from home once in a while and enjoy yourself. He would appreciate you more if you showed some ability to stand on your own feet, as a personality in your own right. This certainly wouldn't involve throwing a scare into him, by keeping later hours than his (on his nights out), or trying to make him jealous of other men. Rather it would consist in letting your light shine, as a good neighbor in to community—becoming the "womanly" wife and tower of strength that every man wants as life companion. In the final analysis.

For example, you might enroll in a Red Cross class, or do nurse's aide work on a volunteer basis, or contribute your services to a children's clinic for a block of hours, afternoon or evening, once or twice a week. Also in the local churches you will find women's groups, thriftily sewing for the needy, raising money to finance missionary services and otherwise collaborating in fruitful fellowship. So for advice—be one of these, to widen your horizon, refresh your mind, normalize your emotional attitudes and brighten your spirit in domestic partnership. —M. H.

Following her talk, Lady Fletcher, seated at centre, was guest of honor at a tea given by the Women's Canadian Club. She is seen chatting with Mrs. Gordon Wismer, left; Mrs. A. C. Hope, Delta, and standing, Mrs. H. J. Welch, Qualicum.

Other guests were Mrs. Sidney Smith, Kamloops; Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, and members of the executive. Mrs. F. T. Fairley poured tea at a table centred with a low bowl of daffodils and fern.

World Traveler Relates Experiences In East Africa

"They are gay, have a wonderful sense of humor and if you make them laugh they are your friends," said Lady Fletcher, describing natives of East Africa in her address to members and guests of Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Describing life and conditions in East Africa, the guest told of the greater need for education among the women of the country.

"When a girl is 15 years old she is taken from school for she must learn to do the plowing, hoeing, clearing of land and care for the children," she said.

The world traveler explained that although great progress had been made in the last 50 years in attracting doctors, preachers, teachers and nurses to the work, there is the problem of different languages and customs to be overcome.

"There are 170 different tribes in East Africa alone.

"The Massai tribe, for example," she said, "are great warriors. They are tall, averaging six feet three inches, are independent and will have nothing to do with white men."

"The Kikuyu people are small, quick to learn and quick to forget. Their women carry heavy loads, some up to 300 pounds."

"Then there is the Chagga tribe, whose members are all Christians. They own plantations of their own without leadership of the whites."

Praising the work of missionaries, Lady Fletcher told of her visit to a leper colony where 300 Africans were cared for by four Roman Catholic nursing sisters.

"It made me feel very humble, for these women could never go back to their homes, yet they were happy and well adjusted," she said. "The lepers also seemed to be happy and their community was run as any other."

In her enlightening talk, sparked with a keen sense of humor, she recalled impressions of wild animal life.

"It was not too uncommon to come upon a sign reading: 'Beware of elephants crossing the road.' The animals are so numerous in Tanganyika that 1,000 are killed each year to prevent too great an increase."

In conclusion, Lady Fletcher offered a recipe for nations to live well together.

"We must respect one another's way of life," she said. Introduced by president, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Lady Fletcher was thanked by Mrs. H. A. Butterfield.

Lauds 'Death Of Salesman'

"It is one of the most important plays, terrible yet rather wonderful, profoundly moving and beautiful," said Miss Dorothy Somerset, Vancouver, who analysed Arthur Miller's play, "Death of A Salesman," for members of Victoria University Women's Club.

The guest speaker, with the Department of English, University of British Columbia, revealed that she had chosen the play because it offered a new theatre form by amalgamating and regrouping all important forces of theatre in the last 50 years.

"The play is based on the character 'Willie,' his hopes, dreams, struggle to realize dreams and finally anguish over his failure," she said. "He is a bit of you and me . . . of the little people. It is the conflict between dreams and reality. Willie sells dreams and lives a lie completely removed from reality. It is age-old and universal."

In further analysing the story of the 63-year-old salesman who commits suicide in dream of triumph, the director told of the effect of the main character to deny reality, destroying the mind, and lastly himself.

"The play lives up to the classical mode, shifting from past to present. Movie and radio techniques are allied in the form of flashbacks when time melts."

Introduced by Mrs. T. B. Williams, the guest from the mainland was thanked by Mrs. J. F. K. English. Following discussion period, refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mills, Epworth Street, have their niece, Mrs. Dean Fieldhouse, Nelson, and her daughter, Dorothy, as their guest for the Easter weekend.

KEEP COSTS DOWN, CRY IN LONDON

LONDON (Reuters) — Women members of the Labor Party are demanding more government control to keep down the cost of house-keeping.

Nineteen resolutions and amendments seeking reimposition of wartime price fixing have been put forward for the national conference of labor women to be held next month.

Not one suggests relaxation of any existing control. Several resolutions ask for strict control of selling prices for specific items—fish, rabbits, vegetables, sweets and towels.

Cellar Dwelling Germans Doomed to Remain There

By MENNO DUERKSEN
FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—The war smashed so many houses in Germany that even under today's record building program, experts believe it will take at least 13 years to get the last German out of his cellar.

Housing officials estimate that West Germany needs more than 4,500,000 new apartments even to approach adequate housing for its 45,000,000 population.

At the height of his building boom, which made Nazism popular, Hitler never was able to produce more than 180,000 dwellings annually in what is now West Germany.

The Germans claim they have already broken this record. The housing minister, Eberhard Wildermuth, predicted that 350,000 dwellings will be completed in West Germany this year.

CALL IT MIRACLE

German building engineers claim they already have accomplished a miracle by completing an estimated 300,000 dwellings in 1950, without even considering the 450,000 units per year necessary to produce the needed 4,500,000 to 5,000,000 dwellings within the next decade.

It all adds up to mean that the housing shortage in Germany is not going to be solved within the foreseeable future, especially when certain difficulties have to be taken into consideration.

First there are costs. Using an index of 100 for building material costs in 1938, the index reached 205 in October, 1950, and still is climbing.

The second difficulty is the rent control law, which keeps rents at prewar levels. Some workers' apartments rent for as little as 40 to 50 marks (from $9 to $12) per month, while it costs an average of 10,000 marks to build an apartment.

INVESTORS SHY

That means few private investors are willing to tie their money up in apartments. Of the 2,700,000,000 marks (about $650,000,000) available for building in 1950, government and public funds had to put up more than half, including 250,000,000 marks (about $60,000,000) of Marshall Plan funds.

Most of the rest had to come from insurance companies, building and loan associations and private building savings associations. Only about 400,000,000 marks came from private capital, or less than 15 per cent.

Nevertheless, government officials have put on pressure to make sure that building funds are available and Wildermuth is sure his goal of 350,000 dwellings for this year will be reached, if a sudden rearmament program does not take too much of the available material.

For the time being, the rent control law will stay, for any attempt to change it would draw sharp fire and possible strikes from Germany's highly-organized labor.

'Legal' Bigamy

LUANSHYA, Northern Rhodesia (CP)—An African who had left his wife for another woman told the court it was "perfectly legal" because he had "transferred" his marriage certificate by the simple expedient of crossing out one name and writing in the other.

Britain Takes Over Idea Of Father's Day

LONDON (CP)—British fathers, the fellows who usually "shell out" for the many special annual events, are to have a day all to themselves as Canada has had for years.

An organization known as the Fathers' Day Association has decided something should be done to cheer up the "old man," by encouraging the giving of suitable gifts.

G. H. Redfern, secretary of the new association, admits the idea is primarily designed to boost trade. Subscribers, he said, were mainly manufacturers of articles fathers might welcome, such as pipes, pens and propelling pencils.

There is no hump about this association," Mr. Redfern said. "The idea is to devote one day each year to the interests and welfare of fathers. But I am not saying that we will all go to church on father's day."

Pop's day will likely be the last Sunday in June.

British M.P.'s Get Up To Date On Aptly-Applied Nicknames

LONDON (Reuter)—Members of the House of Commons have found time to bring up-to-date their list of nicknames.

Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council and Deputy Prime Minister, has been chief supporter of the Festival of Britain. Instead of calling him "The Lord President" in a debate last year, a member inadvertently referred to "The Lord Festival." The name has stuck.

Women members of the House, especially vulnerable to comments on their appearance, all have nicknames, some disrespectful. For instance: Mrs. Elizabeth (Bessie) Bradock, heavyweight Socialist Member for the tough exchange division of Liverpool, is "Tugboat Annie."

When Lord Alexander of Hillsborough was first lord of the Admiralty he was known to the opposition as "The Dummy Dreadnought."

Winston Churchill has always been "Winnie"—although there is no recorded case of any member using this name to the great man himself.

Control Of Mississippi Floods May be Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers won't say so flatly but they believe they are well on the way towards whipping one of the biggest jobs man has ever undertaken in the United States—the flood control of the mighty Mississippi River.

The engineers have been fitting gains on the big stream for 22 years. Although hesitant to say at this moment that the river is boxed in, Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Army Engineers, points out that last spring more water swept down the big trough than in the devastating flood of 1927. The man-made restraining levees held and damage was comparatively minor.

He confidently predicts that when the engineers complete the works now planned "we will have the Mississippi basin under control."

General Pick is intimately acquainted with the Mississippi River. It drains 41 per cent of the United States. Congress turned the job of halting its rampages over to the army engineers in 1928, the year after the flood that cost 200 lives and $235,000,000 in property damage and inundated 700,000 homes for a month.

Although classed as one project, the job is in reality a multitude of flood control works, chiefly levee building. The project covers the river from the Gulf of Mexico to Cairo, Ill., and all of its tributaries in between, including the Ohio.

COSTLY PROJECT
To date Congress has authorized $1,292,000,000 for work on this project. Actual appropriations to date total $848,000,000.

General Pick's reply is that the floods which already have been prevented by the still-incomplete works would have caused nearly $5,000,000,000 in damages.

What the engineers did in setting up the project was to imagine a Mississippi River flood greater than any ever known. Then they set out to build levees, floodways and reservoirs to handle it.

The engineers frankly admit that their design flood could be exceeded if every tributary of the Mississippi equalled its record flood at once.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Surgery For Disease Of Heart From Birth

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Heart disease of various kinds is responsible for much invalidism and far too many deaths. The kind discussed in today's column is that which is present at birth—congenital heart disease.

There are even several kinds of congenital heart disease. In some the openings between different chambers of the heart which should close before birth fail to do so; in others, blood vessels which are useful during the pre-birth period remain open or fail to develop normally.

The defect in the heart may be so large that death follows almost immediately after birth. In many others, however, the abnormality is slight or at least not so serious that life cannot be sustained for years. In the moderately severe cases the infant has a purplish color and these children are commonly spoken of as "blue babies."

This coloration is caused by the fact that blood leaving the heart, which has received oxygen from the lungs, is mixed with blood returning to the heart which has lost its oxygen and has the blue color that is seen normally in the veins.

In addition to the blue color most small infants with congenital heart conditions develop, in the course of time, a sort of clubbing appearance at the ends of their fingers and toes. The number of red blood cells increases in these children also.

Today many victims of congenital heart disease can be treated successfully by surgery. Needless to say, the operations used in such cases require great skill and dexterity. Not all of those with birth defects of the heart are good risks even for the marvelous operations possible today.

Nevertheless, surgery has again proved its ability to extend life and health along lines which would have been thought utterly impossible only a few years ago. Sometimes the results seem like miracles.

DEFECT DETECTION

Victims of mild types of congenital heart disease may live for many years without showing important symptoms. Indeed, although it is not too difficult for an experienced doctor to make a diagnosis of congenital heart disease, it may be impossible in some cases to tell exactly what defect is present.

Labor Minister Cates Defends Hospital Plan

How the workingman might look at the government's action in raising hospital insurance premiums and introducing co-insurance was given in the Legislature Wednesday by Labor Minister Cates.

He recalled that in his North Vancouver tug boat company the employees clamored for hospitalization insurance coverage under private schemes such as the Blue Cross service, prior to the government scheme.

If the workingman thought back to those days, the minister felt there would not be the hostile feeling towards the government's new plan as there appeared to be now.

Participation in such schemes as the Blue Cross had to be on a group basis for one thing. It provided limited coverage for 30 days for bed and board only. At first the premiums for family coverage was $24 a year. Later they went to $33. The limited coverage was extended by five days for each year of participation at that time.

Linked with the Blue Cross was Medical Service Association coverage for doctor's treatment in which costs had risen correspondingly. A family unit premium under M.S.A. went from $42 a year to $52.56 and later to $63.

The minister said it should be remembered that wages being paid in hospitals when these private schemes first were started were sorrowfully low. Pay of nurses did not amount to more than $60 a month in some instances.

Dredging Of Inlet Proposed To Help Problem Of Gorge

Belief that a thorough dredging of Portage Inlet and Gorge followed up by a permanent program of caretaking and installation of a sewage system in Gorge district would go a long way towards solving the Gorge problem was expressed by James Barr in a letter to Ald. Percy Scurrah, chairman of the city's Gorge Canal committee.

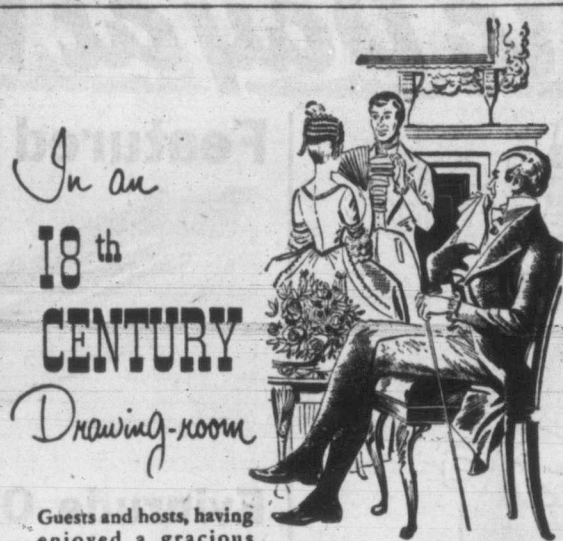

Mr. Barr is not in agreement with present plans for a Gorge Canal waterway as proposed by the committee.

Ald. Scurrah sometime ago replied to points raised by Mr. Barr concerning possibility of raw sewage from Esquimalt being carried from the outlet near Saxe Point into Esquimalt Harbor and then through the canal to Portage Inlet and the Gorge.

Ald. Scurrah said there was no sewer emptying into Saxe Point. Mr. Barr said there were two sewage outfalls in the vicinity, both about one-quarter mile from Saxe Point.

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Heavier truckage is being laid south of The Pas to handle the gradually increasing wheat shipments over the Hudson Bay Railway, Mayor H. F. Bickle told the town council.

Victoria Daily Times 27
THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1951

Guests and hosts, having enjoyed a gracious dinner, sat together and partook of wine—a wine so pleasing to the taste and so satisfying it was heralded throughout Europe as one of the finest wines of the day.

That was a hundred years ago, but that wine—Paarl Old Constantia—is still world-wide in popularity. The rich, full-bodied taste of Paarl Old Constantia is as satisfying to-day as it was then.

And up through the years, the perfect host and hostess have always served Paarl Old Constantia after they, and their guests, have enjoyed a pleasant and satisfying dinner.

Next time you have guests, either for dinner or for the evening, serve them Paarl Old Constantia—they'll appreciate your taste and good judgement.

Sister Arrested By Reds

Chinese Communist authorities in Canton have arrested a number of Canadian Sisters, most of them from the province of Quebec, on charges of being responsible for the deaths of 2,000 children in an orphanage operated by the Sisters of the Immaculate Conception. Sister Alphonse du Redempteur, superior of the orphanage and one of those arrested, is shown above caring for a newly-born Chinese child. The photo was taken in 1948.—(CP Photo)

Will Offer Prayers For Jailed Nuns

HONGKONG (Reuter) — The Hongkong Standard, Chinese-owned morning newspaper, called today on churches of all denominations to offer prayers at Easter for five Canadian nuns recently arrested by the Communists at Canton.

The newspaper said the Canadian nuns and others were "bravely carrying the torch of truth in a land darkened by evil forces."

The nuns were arrested for alleged negligence in the care of babies in an orphanage attached to the convent of the Immaculate Conception.

The Standard says that even if Communist allegations of high mortality at the orphanage were accepted, "it does not follow that the deaths of these unwanted babies may in any way be attributed to human negligence."

The newspaper says that in China "the Sisters of Mercy can never catch up with the grim reaper."

"It is a travesty of justice to spring on public-spirited and kind-hearted nuns charges of murder for trying to do something which neither the Chinese community nor municipal authorities care to do."

At Washington, Green disclosed that he had wired the C.I.O. packinghouse workers and the A.F.L. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers, asking that they postpone any walkout engendered by the refusal of Economic Stabilizer Eric A. Johnston to approve an 11-cent hourly pay hike.

Will Screen Seamen On Great Lakes

Premier Announces Security Measure

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today announced that seamen serving on Canadian ships on the Great Lakes are to be screened for security.

The Prime Minister told a press conference that the government had created the new regulations today under the emergency powers legislation recently passed by Parliament.

As a protection against sabotage all seamen serving on ships of Canadian registry or ownership on the Great Lakes will have to carry "seamen's cards" issued by the Labor Department.

Labor Minister Gregg said later in an interview he expects the screening will be put into effect by May 1.

The R.C.M.P. will screen applicants for seamen's cards, the Minister said. No anti-Communist oath will be exacted.

The Canadian screening program, the Prime Minister said, will be conducted in co-operation with United States authorities, who already have clamped down marine security restrictions.

The Prime Minister indicated the possibility that the security measures might be extended to seamen on foreign ships going up the Great Lakes.

Mr. St. Laurent also said, under questioning, that he had no announcement to make on whether the regulations will be applied to shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

G. B. SHAW LEFT AN ESTATE VALUED AT OVER $1,000,000

LONDON (CP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw, a pioneer Socialist who hated taxes, left an estate valued at $367,235 ($1,101,700), but reckoned after debts and taxes at about $121,014, his will and an accounting disclosed today.

The 14-page document directed that part of money be used for promoting a 40-letter alphabet which was one of the Irish wit's pet projects.

Shaw died last November at the age of 94.

His net estate, after settlement of all outstanding obligations, was $301,585. Estate taxes totaled $180,571.

The will authorized the publication of all letters he wrote to the late Mrs. Patrick Campbell, a witty actress who was long a great friend of his.

Gangster Guzik Held In Contempt

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate crime committee declared today that Chicago underworld leader Jake Guzik is in contempt of the Senate and set a $10,000 bond on his continued freedom.

She will reign at the Press Photographers' Ball come April 6.

Perjury Citation Also Seen

Ex-N.Y. Mayor 'Will Not Resign'

(From late AP, UP Despatches)

A U.S. House of Representatives sub-committee ordered the Internal Revenue Bureau today to check on possible tax evasion in connection with alleged cash payments to former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer, U.S. Ambassador to Mexico.

At the same time, O'Dwyer also faced possible perjury charges about $65,000 in missing "political contributions."

The House announcement was made by Representative Cecil King (Dem.-Calif.), chairman of a ways and means sub-committee which has begun an investigation into enforcement of the federal tax laws.

King said the bureau was told to "expedite its investigation and report on the possibility that tax evasion may have occurred through failure to report alleged cash transactions" between O'Dwyer, New York Water Commissioner James J. Moran who resigned today, "and others in the New York area."

DENIES CHARGE

John P. Crane, president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association in New York, told the Senate crime investigating committee Wednesday he gave $10,000 to O'Dwyer in 1949. O'Dwyer denied it.

Crane also said he gave Moran $55,000 as a "goodwill gift."

Meanwhile, O'Dwyer said today he was not going to resign as ambassador and was not going to Washington for another appearance before the Senate crime investigating committee. His future as ambassador was "up to my superiors," he added.

Commissioner Moran said he would bow to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's demand that he resign his $15,000-a-year lifetime job because he allegedly accepted money from the head of the Uniformed Firemen's Association.

WILLIAM O'DWYER

The mayor's demand was made Wednesday after Crane, head of the association, told the Kefauver crime committee under oath that he gave the money to Moran, then first deputy fire commissioner, so he'd be on "our side."

Moran had denied in testimony before the Senate committee that he ever received any money from Crane.

"Obviously somebody is lying," said District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, as he checked into possible perjury charges in the city's biggest political scandal since the Sabury investigation drove Mayor Jimmy Walker out of office in the 1930's.

Crane's testimony climaxed an eight-day public hearing conducted by the Senate special investigating committee.

QUICK DECISION

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., chairman of the Senate committee, said in Washington last night that he had talked the matter of perjury charges over with Hogan and that "it will be brought to a very quick decision."

Second Biggest Herring Season

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 1950-51 herring season was the second greatest in British Columbia history, statistics released today by the federal fisheries office here reveal.

The season saw 187,183 tons of fish taken—a total exceeded only by 189,251 tons taken two years ago.

The 1950-51 catch produced 3,238,000 gallons of oil, 31,000 tons of meal and 116,000 cases of canned fish.

One-Legged Sailor's Dance Stops The Show

NEW YORK (UP)—There was more than 300 servicemen and their girls on the dance floor of the Times Square canteen and they wouldn't have stopped waiting to watch Fred Astaire. But they stopped for seaman John J. Henry, their eyes wide with amazement, then shining with pride.

He had entered the canteen with beads of sweat on his forehead, had to be coaxed the last 20 feet to a table.

"They slapped $20 on the table and dared me to dance one number," he said.

Beside him sat a blue-eyed, blonde W.A.C. he'd just met, Cpl. Kay King of Sacramento, Calif., who nudged him in the ribs and said, "Go ahead, take that bet."

The orchestra started playing "In the Mood," a tune Henry had always liked. And that's how he happened to stop the show.

He shoved his crutches aside, teetered upward and put his arms around the corporal.

They moved onto the dance floor and jitterbugged like professionals. They hoofed that song through to the last bar.

With seaman Henry doing it on one leg.

His left leg was gone just below the hip.

Six months before, he was aboard a minesweeper off Korea which struck a mine and sank. Seaman Henry was rescued, but his leg was so injured it was amputated.

Wartime Defence Measure

Will Meet Needs Of Anaconda Copper

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning announced today that a bill to provide for the immediate export of natural gas to the United States "purely as a defence emergency measure" will be introduced immediately at the current session of the Legislature. Negotiations for the export permit were conducted through Hon. C. D. Howe, who has been appointed minister of defence production in Ottawa.

The premier said the gas is intended to meet the needs of the vital Anaconda Copper Mining Company Limited in Montana.

It will be the first large-scale export of Alberta gas which had been banned pending the proving of reserves—considered more than adequate for Alberta's own needs.

Mr. Manning said the bill will provide a maximum of 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, or a yearly maximum of 10,000,000,000 cubic feet from the Pakowski Lake field near Manyberries in southeastern Alberta. The field is 21 miles north of the international boundary line.

The pipeline would run the 21 miles from the field to the border and then another 35 miles to the Cutbank, Mont., field where it would join the Montana Power Company pipelines to the Butte, Anaconda and Great Falls installation of the world's largest mining company.

Want No Big Advance Over 38th Parallel

LONDON (AP)—A government spokesman hinted today Britain is reconciled to small-scale northward movements by United Nations troops across Korea's 38th Parallel but is dubious about any "general advance" past the line.

Kenneth Younger, the Minister of State, told the House of Commons:

"So long as there are military operations in progress I must stop short of giving to the opposing generals a present of the tactical and strategic intentions of our forces."

"We still consider that Korea is one country with one people. How we achieved that unification is, of course, another matter."

"I believe we might well prejudice military resistance to aggression if we were to force the commander on the spot to conform to an imaginary line that has no significance of any kind except on the map."

War Crisis At A Glance

KOREA—A U.S. tank-infantry patrol, ambushed less than three miles from the North Korean border, shot its way out. U.S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said U.N. planes in nine months have killed or wounded more than 93,000 Red troops in 100,000 sorties over Korea. President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea said U.N. troops, if armed and supplied, can take over the U.N. war in Korea once Red forces are driven to the Manchurian border.

OTTAWA—Appointment of Trade Minister Howe as Canada's new Minister For Defence Production was announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent, who also revealed that seamen serving on Canadian ships on the Great Lakes are to be screened for security.
